Creating Fear News And The Construction Of Crisis:

Creating Fear David L. Altheide, The creative use of fear by news media and social control organizations has produced a discourse of fear The awareness and expectation that danger and risk are lurking everywhere Case studies illustrates how certain organizations and social institutions benefit from the exploitation of such fear construction One social impact is a manipulated public empathy We now have more victims than at any time in our prior history Another more troubling result is the role we have ceded to law enforcement and punishment we turn ever more readily to the state and formal control to protect us from what we fear This book attempts through the marshalling of significant data to interrupt that vicious cycle of fear discourse David Altheide employs a method which he calls tracking discourse to map how the nature and the extent of the use of the word fear has changed since the 1980s how the topics associated with fear the topics of media discourse have also changed over the same period for example the emphasis moves over time across AIDS crime immigrants race sexuality schools and children and how certain news sources prevail over others thus protectively insulating themselves from criticism of the premises of their discourse frames

Emotions and Social Change David Lemmings, Ann Brooks, 2014-04-24 This edited collection takes a critical perspective on Norbert Elias's theory of the civilizing process through historical essays and contemporary analysis from sociologists and cultural theorists. It focuses on changes in emotional regimes or styles and considers the intersection of emotions and social change historically and contemporaneously. The book is set in the context of increasing interest among humanities and social science scholars in reconsidering the significance of emotion and affect in society and the development of empirical research and theorizing around these subjects. Some have labeled this interest as an affective turn or a turn to affect which suggests a profound and wide ranging reshaping of disciplines. Building upon complex theoretical models of emotions and social change, the chapters exemplify this shift in analysis of emotions and affect and suggest different approaches to investigation which may help to shape the direction of sociological and historical thinking and research.

Lessons from Ground Zero Jay Perkins, 2017-09-08. It ranked among journalism's finest hours. That is what was heard in the weeks following September 11, 2001. They made mistakes of course but in covering one of the biggest disasters ever to hit the United States, journalists used their training, their experience, their understanding, and their sensitivity to provide coverage that helped bring understanding and a sense of calm to the chaos. Their performance did not end with reporting the immediate impact of the catastrophe. They continued to analyze what happened, the impact to property and human lives, the impact on government and foreign relations. Lessons from Ground Zero examines journalism's efforts to cover a crisis while analyzing journalism itself. Many lessons were evident to journalists as they sought to cope with the challenges of covering 9/11. The long term question, however, is whether the answers they found served as catalysts for better journalism in the future or whether they have been forgotten, put into the closet of old memories with no noticeable long term impact. This book analyzes journalists' response to 9/11 through scholarly research and interviews with many of the journalists who covered 9/11. Sometimes they do not agree but all are thoughtful and each adds to understanding. Public opinion polls show clearly that citizens appreciated and responded to media coverage. Given that this occurred in a time frame in which public approval of American journalism had declined, it is reasonable to ask what the media did that was different from their normal practices. This book provides some of the answers.

The Oldest Trick in the Book Ben M. Debney, 2020-07-03. This book investigates the normalisation of blame shifting within ideological discourse as a broad feature of history, working from Churchill's truism that history is written by the victors. To that end, it explores historical episodes of political persecution carried out under cover of moral panic, highlighting the process of Othering common to each and theorising a historical model of panic-driven scapegoating from the results. Building this model from case studies in witch panic, communist panic, and terrorist panic, respectively, The Oldest Trick in the Book builds an argument that features common to each case study reflect broader historical patterning consistent with Churchill's maxim. On this basis, it argues that the periodic construction of bogeymen or folk demons is a useful device for enabling the kind of victim playing and victim blaming critical to protecting elite privilege during periods of crisis and that in being a recurring theme, historically, panic-driven scapegoating retains great ongoing value to the privileged and powerful and thus conspicuously remains an ongoing feature of world politics Terrorism in America Kevin Borgeson, Robin Valeri, 2008-09-05 Death, Society, and Human Experience Robert Kastenbaum, Christopher M. Moreman, 2024-03-28 The 13th edition of Death Society and Human Experience provides a panoramic overview of the ways that we are touched by death and dying both as individuals and as members of society. A landmark text in the field, the authors draw on contributions from the social and behavioral sciences as well as the humanities, including perspectives offered through history, philosophy, religion, literature, and the arts, to provide thorough coverage and understanding of topics associated with the end of life and death and dying. By approaching the subject from multiple angles, the authors explain the various ways that individual, cultural, and societal attitudes influence both how and when we die and how we live and deal with the knowledge of death and loss. Originally written by Robert Kastenbaum, a renowned scholar who developed one of the world's first death education courses, Christopher M. Moreman, who has worked in the field of death studies for two decades, has updated this edition. In addition to infusing his close areas of focus both in afterlife beliefs and experiences and how these might affect how people live their lives, he's weaved in new coverage of current affairs, including the impact of COVID-19 on experiences of death, bereavement, mourning, and more. Expanded legalization of physician-assisted dying in the United States and several countries, changes in bereavement rituals and traditions stemming from technology use, and social media. With additional content and classroom extensions available online, Death Society and Human Experience remains a thoughtful, exploratory, and impressively comprehensive overview for undergraduate and graduate courses in death, dying, and bereavement. Media and Its Role in Protecting the Rights of Children in Africa Oyero, Olusola, 2019-10-18 Many international and national charters and declarations have sought to define and protect the rights of children and ensure their safety. Although many African countries subscribe to these international conventions and charters, rights violations against children have not diminished, and negative actions against children are still carried out daily. Though the media have been charged with the responsibility of active involvement in protecting the interest of the child, it is important to examine how well they have fared in the performance of this duty and the challenges that occur in the process, as well as to identify future pathways to ensure that the media succeeds in this assignment. Media and Its Role in Protecting the Rights of Children in Africa is an essential research publication that examines media roles, challenges, theories, and strategies to ensuring the realization of the rights of children. Featuring a range of topics such as cyber ethics, media studies, and sustainable development, this book is essential for reporters, journalists, newscasters, broadcasters, communication specialists, government officials, activists, humanitarians, sociologists, psychologists, social workers, professionals, researchers, non-governmental organizations, policymakers, academicians, and students. Dictionary of Media and Communication Studies James Watson, Anne Hill, 2006-05-26 No student of media communication and cultural studies can afford to be without the new edition of Watson and Hill. Therapy Culture: Cultivating Vu Frank Furedi, 2013-10-28 First published in 2004 Therapy Culture explores the powerful influence of therapeutic imperative in Anglo American societies In recent decades virtually every sphere of life has become subject to a new emotional culture Professor Furedi suggests that the recent cultural turn towards the realm of the emotions coincides with a radical redefinition of personhood Increasingly vulnerability is presented as the defining feature of people s psychology Terms like at risk scarred for life or emotional damage evoke a unique sense of powerlessness Furedi questions widely accepted thesis that the therapeutic culture is primarily about imposing a new conformity through the management of people s emotions Through framing the problem of everyday life through the prism of emotions therapeutic culture incites people to feel powerless and ill Drawing on developments in popular culture political and social life Furedi provides a path breaking analysis of the therapeutic turn

Using Murder Philip Jenkins, 2017-09-08 First published in 1994 this book investigates the social construction of serial homicide and assesses the concern that popular fears and stereotypes have exaggerated the actual scale of multiple homicide Jenkins has produced an innovative synthesis of approaches to social problem construction that includes an historical and social scientific estimate of the objective scale of serial murder a rhetorical analysis of the construction of the phenomenon in public debate a cultural studies oriented analysis of the portrayal of serial murder in contemporary media Chapters include The Construction of Problems and Panic which covers areas such as comprehending murder dangerous outsiders and the rhetoric of persecution The Reality of Serial Murder which discusses statistics stereotype examination and media patterns Popular Culture Images of the Serial Killer The Racial Dimension Serial Murder as Bias Crime and Darker than We Imagine Cults and Conspiracies
