and the Creation of a Palestinian State J. H. H. Weiler, 2024-10-31 To many outside observers of the Israeli Palestinian conflict there would appear to be one eminently sensible solution in exchange for recognition and adequate security guarantees Israel should return the West Bank and the Gaza strip subject to minor boundary modifications to the Palestinians led by a moderate PLO The Palestinians would then exercise their right to self determination and establish an independent state with or without a link to Jordan And yet this solution has found favor neither with successive Israeli governments nor with the PLO First published in 1985 Israel and the Creation of a Palestinian State now with a new preface by the author analyses the reasons for the rejection of this solution by the protagonists It then sets up a vision of a possible solution which by taking account of the subjective fears and aspirations of the parties may be regarded as more feasible The author's vision draws inspiration from the experience of reconstructing a new transnational order in Europe after the ravages of the Second World War The underlying theme focuses on the limitations of the purely national context as a framework for resolving the current political problems of the Israeli Palestinian dilemma Creating the Palestinian State Jerome M. Segal, 1989

Palestinian State Formation Nubar Hovsepian, 2009-03-26 This book examines the role of education in building a new Palestinian state and especially on the role and function of the education system in the process of state formation Since education frames a people's identity the nature of the education system affects how Palestinians relate to their state Through education the Palestinian Authority PA transforms the parameters of identity to serve the requirements of state building and the peace process International assistance to the PA affects all of these processes through the disbursement of political rent whose primary function is to bolster the PA and to keep the peace process going The new Palestinian Authority has assumed two seemingly contradictory functions state building and resistance and the dynamic tensions between the two raise key questions for political and policy analysis Are these functions mutually exclusive or complementary in the context of the ongoing peace negotiations and state building Can the Palestinian leadership transform the Palestinian national movement from a revolutionary organization to a pragmatic state apparatus Are the PLO and the PA interchangeable What type of power does the PA need to cultivate the support or to secure the compliance of the Palestinian people for the state building project Clearly the answers to these questions have a direct bearing on the education system Will this system promote a resistance identity or a state building legitimizing identity
