During the quarter of a century before the thirteen colonies became a nation the northwest quadrant of North Carolina had just begun to attract permanent settlers This seemingly primitive area may not appear to be a likely source for attractive pottery and ornate silverware and furniture much less for an audience to appreciate these refinements Yet such crafts were not confined to urban centers and artisans like other colonists were striving to create better lives for themselves as well as to practice their trades As Johanna Miller Lewis shows in this pivotal study of colonial history and material culture the growing population of Rowan County required not only blacksmiths saddlers and tanners but also a great variety of skilled craftsmen to help raise the standard of living Rowan County s rapid expansion was in part the result of the planned settlements of the Moravian Church Because the Moravians maintained careful records historians have previously credited church artisans with greater skill and more economic awareness than non church craftsmen Through meticulous attention to court and private records deeds wills and other sources Lewis reveals the Moravian failure to keep up with the pace of development occurring elsewhere in the county Challenging the traditional belief that southern backcountry life was primitive Lewis shows that many artisans held public office and wielded power in the public sphere She also examines women weavers and spinsters as an integral part of the population All artisans Moravian and non Moravian male and female helped the local market economy expand to include coastal and trans Atlantic trade Lewis s book contributes meaningfully to the debate over self sufficiency and capitalism in rural America

Decolonising Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics (STEM) in an Age of Technocolonialism Nhemachena, Artwell, Hlabangane, Nokuthula, Matowanyika, Joseph Z. Z., 2020-03-02 Positioning the notions of coloniality of ignorance and geopolitics of ignorance as central to coloniality and colonisation this book examines how colonialists socially produced ignorance among colonised indigenous peoples so as to render them docile and manageable Dismissing colonial descriptions of indigenous people as savages illiterate irrational prelogical mystical primitive barbaric and backward the book argues that imperialists colonialists contrived geopolitics of ignorance wherein indigenous regions were forced to become ignorant hence containable and manageable in the imperial world Questioning the provenance of modernist epistemologies the book asks why Eurocentric scholars only contest the provenance of indigenous knowledges artefacts and scientific collections Interrogating why empire sponsors the decolonisation of universities epistemologies in indigenous territories while resisting the repatriation restitution of indigenous artefacts the book also wonders why Westerners who still retain indigenous artefacts skulls and skeletons in their museums universities and private collections do not consider such artefacts and skulls to be colonising them as well The book is valuable to scholars and activists in the fields of anthropology museums and heritage studies science and technology studies decoloniality policymaking education politics sociology and development studies
