Creating Cooperation Pepper D. Culpepper, 2018-07-05 In Creating Cooperation Pepper D Culpepper explains the successes and failures of human capital reforms adopted by the French and German governments in the 1990s Employers and employees both stand to gain from corporate investment in worker skills but uncertainty and mutual distrust among companies doom many policy initiatives to failure Higher skills benefit society as a whole so national governments want to foster them However business firms often will not invest in training that makes their workers more attractive to other employers even though they would prefer having better skilled workers Culpepper sees in European training programs a challenge typical of contemporary problems of public policy success increasingly depends on the ability of governments to convince private actors to cooperate with each other In the United States as in Europe he argues policy makers can achieve this goal only by incorporating the insights of private information into public policy Culpepper demonstrates that the lessons of decentralized cooperation extend to industrial and environmental policies In the final chapter he examines regional innovation programs in the United Kingdom and the clean up of the Chesapeake Bay in the United States a domestic problem that required the coordination of disparate agencies and stakeholders

Collective Skill Formation in the Knowledge Economy Giuliano Bonoli,Patrick Emmenegger,2022-09-22 Interest in collective skill formation systems has been high for a long time but recent structural economic and societal developments have led commentators to question their viability In particular the shift towards a knowledge economy creates a number of challenges for these highly praised systems of vocational training These challenges relate to the growing importance of knowledge intensive production in advanced economies and with the accelerated pace of change due to innovation and globalization What is more these issues are compounded by coinciding developments in growing inequality and the emergence of multicultural societies Can collective skill formation systems adapt fast enough to the needs of the knowledge economy Can they continue to be as successful as they have been in the past in integrating youth in the labour market Will employers be willing to participate in the delivery of vocational training in this new context In this book a world class team of leading experts on collective skill formation systems provide a thorough discussion of these and other questions raised by the shift to a knowledge economy The book argues that collective skill formation systems remain attractive for firms and governments However continuous and profound adjustments will be needed if they are to fulfil their objectives in terms of equity and efficiency

Handbook of the Economics of Education Eric A. Hanushek,Stephen J. Machin,Ludger Woessmann,2010-11-11 How does education affect economic and social outcomes and how can it inform public policy Volume 3 of the Handbooks in the Economics of Education uses newly available high quality data from around the world to address these and other core questions With the help of new methodological approaches contributors cover econometric methods and international test score data They examine the determinants of educational outcomes and issues surrounding teacher salaries and licensure And reflecting government demands for more evidence based policies they take new looks at institutional features of school systems Volume editors Eric A Hanushek Stanford Stephen Machin University College London and Ludger Woessmann Ifo Institute for Economic Research Munich draw clear lines between newly emerging research on the economics of education and prior work In conjunction with Volume 4 they measure our current understanding of educational acquisition and its economic and social effects Uses rich data to study issues of high contemporary policy relevance Demonstrates how education serves as an important determinant of economic and social outcomes Benefits from the globalization of research in the economics of education How Nations Innovate Jingjing Huo,2015 How Nations Innovate compares how affluent capitalist economies differ in their patterns of technological innovation Building on the varieties of capitalism literature this book goes beyond the traditional focus on radical versus incremental innovation in existing scholarship and takes the comparison of capitalism to an entirely new set of questions around technological innovation For example which type of capitalism engages in job threatening innovation Whose innovation widens income inequality Whose innovation raises productivity Which type of capitalism has more effective financial markets for innovation Whose innovators emphasize control rather than flexibility during innovation By addressing these questions the author demonstrates that the way nations innovate often has deep and sometimes counter intuitive implications for how they compare in many areas of socio economic performance For example although venture capital is most active in Anglo Saxon economies it seems that venture capital performance in stimulating innovation is also poorest in precisely these countries On the issue of employment the author argues that whilst technological innovation in Anglo Saxon economies creates jobs innovation in European economies destroys jobs Nations also differ in the nature of income inequality driven by innovation While innovation pushes top earners further ahead of median earners in Anglo Saxon economies it drags bottom earners further behind the median in European economies Finally varieties of capitalism also differ in their ability to cope with the volatilities of innovation While Anglo Saxon economies face a trade off between low volatility and high innovation output these two goals seem jointly achievable in European economies Handbook of Business and Public Policy Kellow, Aynsley,Porter, Tony,Ronit, Karsten,2021-08-27 This comprehensive Handbook provides an analysis of the key issues accomplishments and challenges of research and practices related to the interactions between business and public policy Handbook of Labour Market Policy in Advanced Democracies Daniel Clegg,Niccolo Durazzi,2023-10-06 Bringing together contributions from leading labour market policy scholars from across the globe this state of the art Handbook offers extensive and compelling analyses of labour market policy in advanced democracies This title contains one or more Open Access chapters Skills, Values, and Development Juan A. Bogliaccini,Aldo Madariaga,2025-10-24 Education remains one of the biggest challenges for Latin American societies However the factors explaining this are hardly known less so thoroughly understood In Skills Values and Development The Political Economy of Education in Latin America the authors approach the education problem in 21st century Latin America by considering it as a political economy issue This political economy approach allows refocusing research from the supply of education educational outcomes institutions and reform trajectories in existing scholarship on policy reforms to the conflicting demands of education by different actors at the intersection of political and economic dynamics The book is divided into three sections first the authors examine how education expansion or the lack of it relates to common regional political trends how these trends relate to skills value orientations and developmental goals and the conflictual dynamics between these goals The second section of the book explores some of these issues from a historical perspective while the final section discusses the political economy of investing in skills in the context of the region s attempts to successfully integrate itself into the knowledge economy and build more cohesive and prosperous societies The book combines a variety of approaches and methodologies including short and long term perspectives large N quantitative analyses comparative methods and country case studies
