Arms Industry Limited:

Arms Industry Limited Herbert Wulf, 1993 Arms Industry Limited is an empirical account of the size and structure of the world arms industry with special case studies of the United States the former Soviet Union Canada countries in both Western and Central Europe and countries in the less developed world and in the Asia Pacific region The book describes the various strategies which arms producing companies have adopted in order to meet the challenges and commitments of the post cold war world Governments are in the process of restructuring national armed forces and revising military equipment procurement plans Military budgets are tighter in many parts of the world affecting national arms production and arms exports The most common company strategies are to reduce the size of the firm and lay off employees to mothball production facilities to transnationalize firms and to convert firms to non military production While there are counter pressures to a decrease in the production and export of arms in the future companies will probably have to reduce their production capacities and number of employees even further The strong international pressure on governments to regulate arms exports particularly since the 1991 Persian Gulf War is also examined by the international group of experts who have contributed the case studies in the volume Arms Trade and Europe Paul Cornish, 1995-03-12 Focusing on conventional weapons rather than nuclear biological and chemical ones this book draws attention to important differences within the EU between the trade in finished weapons and the technology used to make them It examines West European efforts since 1945 to manage both sides of conventional defence related trade and the political industrial technological and conceptual obstacles to effective multilateral co ordination and regulation The book argues that in current European and international circumstances recent EU initiatives have limited prospects and may prove to be counterproductive The Defence Industry in

East-Central Europe Judit Kiss, 1997 In 1989 90 the collapse of state socialism and the end of the Cold War brought dramatic changes for the defence industries of East Central Europe Initially it seemed that the resources devoted to the Cold War confrontation might become available for investment in non military economic and social progress However by 1994 this optimism had given way to recognition that the transformation would involve significant costs and could not be accomplished quickly The Defence Industry in East Central Europe charts the development of the industries of the Visegrad countries Czechoslovakia and its successor states the Czech Republic and Slovakia Poland and Hungary In the first part national case studies underline the different approaches to reform adopted in the individual countries The second part uses unique information derived from extensive interviews at enterprises in each of the four countries to examine the transformation of industry from a producer perspective Towards a Brave New Arms Industry? Richard Bitzinger, 2014-08-27 In the post Cold War era most countries have been forced to radically reduce their arms industries and abandoned self sufficiency in favour of a subordinate role in an increasingly globalized worldwide defence industry This has significant implications for the future of armaments production for proliferation and for arms control Ethical Dilemmas in the Global Defense

Industry Daniel Schoeni,Tobias Vestner,2023-03-17 The defense industry develops produces and sells weapons that cause great harm It operates at the intersection of the public and private sectors with increased reliance on technology companies This book brings together the diverse perspectives of scholars and practitioners from academia government service the military and the private sector to discuss the moral and legal challenges facing the global defense industry and to introduce solutions that are innovative effective and practical

The Arms Production Dilemma Randall Forsberg,1994 The studies show how military strategy planned forces and the age of systems in the current inventory affect the domestic demand for new production how the recent drop in domestic demand affects arms industries and the extent to which governments and firms in the arms producing nations are turning to exports to sustain the industries In the shrinking arms market of the post Cold War era countries with advanced arms industries face difficult choices concerning force size arms production arms export and defense industrial capacity This book explores the links among these issues through a detailed study of the combat aircraft industries in the United States Russia Britain France Germany Italy and Sweden the seven countries that develop produce and export all of the world s technologically advanced weapon systems The studies show how military strategy planned forces and the age of systems in the current inventory affect the domestic demand for new production how the recent drop in domestic demand affects arms industries and the extent to which governments and firms in the arms producing nations are turning to exports to sustain the industries Stunning changes in Russia s combat aircraft forces industry and strategy are detailed here for the first time as are expected future Russian combat aircraft exports to China Newly compiled data also show that in the United States and Russia and globally arms production for export will exceed production for domestic use for the first time in history starting in 1995 Arms production is thus increasingly dominated by commercial rather than security interests Ultimately at issue is whether governments will exploit the opportunity offered by the dramatic post Cold War contraction of the world arms market to reduce their armed forces and constrain international arms trade while shrinking the arms industry or keep pushing arms exports that generate new threats and justify larger armed forces more arms production and bigger arms industries

The Future of the Defence Industries in Central and Eastern Europe Ian Anthony,1994 This report examines the defence industries in Central and Eastern Europe as they attempt to restructure in the wake of changes brought about by the end of the cold war and downward trends in both military expenditure and arms exports Issues addressed include the developing military doctrines in Central and Eastern Europe the trend in military expenditure the nature of defence industry restructuring the international dimensions of industrial restructuring and the role of arms exports

Research Handbook on the Arms Trade Andrew T.H. Tan,2020-12-25 This comprehensive Research Handbook examines the key drivers of the arms trade mapping the main trends in Asia Europe the Middle East Africa and Latin America It also explores the principal defence markets internationally including the US China India Russia and the UK in greater detail

A New Direction for China's Defense Industry Evan S. Medeiros,Roger

Cliff, Keith Crane, James C. Mulvenon, 2005-12-19 Since the early 1980s a prominent and consistent conclusion drawn from research on China's defense industrial complex has been that China's defense production capabilities are rife with weaknesses and limitations. This study argues for an alternative approach. From the vantage point of 2005 it is time to shift the focus of current research to the gradual improvements in and the future potential of China's defense industrial complex. The study found that China's defense sectors are designing and producing a wide range of increasingly advanced weapons that in the short term are relevant to a possible conflict over Taiwan but also to China's long term military presence in Asia. Part of a larger RAND Project AIR FORCE study on Chinese military modernization, this study examines the current and future capabilities of China's defense industry. The goals of this study are to 1

The Canadian Defence Industry in the New Global Environment Alistair D. Edgar, David G. Haglund, 1995 The defence industry in Canada is facing serious challenges. Declining defence expenditures, protectionism in Canada's principal markets, political resistance and escalating costs of weapons technology all threaten it. The Canadian Defence Industry in the New Global Environment is a thorough examination and assessment of the problems and prospects of the industry given the recent dramatic changes that have transformed the international security environment.

The Economics of the Global Defence Industry Keith Hartley, Jean Belin, 2019-11-08 This book makes an original contribution to our knowledge of the world's major defence industries. Experts from a wide range of different countries from the major economies of North America and Western Europe to developing economies and some unique cases such as China, India, Singapore, South Africa and North Korea describe and analyse the structure, conduct and performance of the defence industry in that country. Each chapter opens with statistics on a key nation's defence spending: its spending on defence R D and on procurement over the period 1980 to 2017, allowing for an analysis of industry changes following the end of the Cold War. After the facts of each industry, the authors describe and analyse the structure, conduct and performance of the industry. The analysis of structure includes discussions of entry conditions, domestic monopoly, oligopoly structures and opportunities for competition. The section on conduct analyses price, non-price competition, including private and state-funded R D and performance, incorporates profitability, imports and exports together with spin-offs and technical progress. The conclusion explores the future prospects for each nation's defence industry. Do defence industries have a future? What might the future defence firm and industry look like in 50 years' time? This volume is a vital resource and reference for anyone interested in defence economics, industrial economics, international relations, strategic studies and public procurement.

The International Arms Trade Rachel Stohl, Suzette Grillot, 2013-04-29 The multi-billion dollar business of the international conventional arms trade involves virtually every country in the world. Around the globe, people's lives are being irrevocably changed by the effects of guns, tanks and missiles. These weapons have the potential to cause a deadly and current threat: one responsible for hundreds of thousands of deaths a year. This succinct and accessible new book explores the complexities and realities of the global conventional weapons trade. The first book on the subject in nearly a decade The International Arms Trade provides an engaging introduction to the trade the effects and the consequences of these weapons The authors trace the history of the arms trade and examine how it has evolved since the end of the Cold War In particular they assess the role of the largest arms exporters and importers the business of selling conventional arms around the world and shed new light on the illicit arms trade and the shadowy dealers who profit from their deadly commerce The book also looks closely at the devastating effect the business can have on countries societies and individuals and concludes with an evaluation of the various existing control strategies and the potential for future control opportunities The International Arms Trade will be invaluable for students and scholars of international relations and security studies and for policymakers and anyone interested in understanding more about the conventional arms trade

Managing Intercollective Conflict Anna J. Borgeryd,1999-02 How does the state system measure up to today's realities when it comes to managing conflict To what extent are efforts to manage conflict successful and for whom Prevailing structures designed to deal with conflict between collectives sovereign states supported by militaries military industry and the United Nations operate mainly on principles that are hundreds of years old Conditions for conflict and its management have changed radically since this state system was constructed There is a risk that institutional inertia produces growing disparity between real world problems and the institutions that are supposed to manage them Realism and legalism are found to form a double ideological support for the state system The study compares the state system's realist and legalist premises to different cases of post cold war intercollective conflict the 1990-91 Gulf War the 1990-95 break up of Yugoslavia and the 1992 Los Angeles riots These cases present important challenges to the prevailing system's premises mismatches between idea and reality that are clearly connected to failures in conflict management In addition findings suggest that the state system not only fails to deal with important aspects of modern day conflict but that it increasingly produces problems that it cannot manage This suggests that the prevailing state system is not in harmony with crucial conflict related aspects of global impact indicating a serious systemic problem

The Handbook on the Political Economy of War Christopher J. Coyne,Rachel L. Mathers,2011-01-01 The Handbook on the Political Economy of War highlights and explores important research questions and discusses the core elements of the political economy of war

The Politics and Economics of Defence Industries Efraim Inbar,Benzion Zilberfarb,2013-09-13 This volume provides a policy relevant analysis of the complex web of contemporary economic trends political developments and strategic considerations that are shaping the contours of the new post Cold War world market for weaponry

Post-Cold War Security Issues in the Asia-Pacific Region Colin McInnes,Mark Rolls,2013-07-23 The Asia Pacific region presents a challenge to international security in the post Cold War era Doubts as to the US military commitment concern with Japan's security aspirations build up of military capabilities and the nuclear ambitions of North Korea have further heightened tension

China's Military Procurement in the Reform Era Yoram Evron,2015-06-26 The decisions that shape the policy of weapons procurement are an important area of national security policy This is all the more true for China which during recent decades has vacillated between different sources and directions of military build up This book explores the politics of military procurement in China under the successive leaderships of Deng Xiaoping Jiang Zemin and Hu Jintao It shows how China's political and military leaders have sought to adjust military procurement policy to meet China's strategic objectives to relate it to non military needs to strike a balance between the import of weapons and indigenous production and to determine the connections between hardware and other components of military power Exploring in detail five major shifts in the nation's military procurement it traces the considerations and negotiations among China's civilian and military leaderships By doing so it offers both a conceptual framework and empirical grounds for evaluating the factors that shape China's military procurement directions as well as their limitations prospects and operational implications As the first book to study comprehensively and systematically the attributes shaping China's military procurement it will be of great interest to students and scholars of Chinese politics

Chinese history and military and strategic studies Weapons Proliferation and World Order Brad Roberts, 2023-09-29

With the end of the Cold War the subject of weapons proliferation has acquired new interest and prominence So too have questions about the nature of the world order that will succeed the structure of the last fifty years This study explores the connections among these topics It describes the prevailing conceptual model of nuclear proliferation evaluates proliferation's changing technical features considers economic and political factors bearing on its future rate and character and speculates about proliferation's implications on the post cold war world order It also considers the role of international public policy in meeting proliferation's challenges Arguing that updated approaches are needed the analysis emphasizes cooperative over coercive approaches to order It concludes with an assessment of progress to date in meeting these new challenges arguing that the new agenda is only slowly coming into focus The Arms Dynamic in World Politics Barry Buzan, Eric Herring, 1998

Presented as a successor to the Cold War era book An Introduction to Strategic Studies this volume explores issues of military security through a framework that links the issues of technology and world politics Arguing that the technological aspect of the global strategic environment is partway through a centuries long process of transformation sped up by the advent of the information age the authors examine such issues as different levels of industrial development on security what they argue is the relative infrequency of the use of force between states the use of military threats such as mass destruction concepts that military means create problems in themselves such as fear of war and insecurity and finally ways in which regulatory schemes such as disarmament can be put to use to solve some of those problems Paper edition unseen 22 50
