Internal Migration, Crime, and Punishment in Contemporary China Anqi Shen, 2018-11-15 This work investigates inequality and social exclusion in contemporary Chinese society specifically in the context of urbanization migration and crime Economic reforms started in the late 1970s post Mao fuelled a trend of urbanization and mass migration within China largely from rural areas to more economically developed urban regions With this migration came new challenges in a rapidly changing society Researchers have extensively studied the rural to urban human movement social changes inequality and its impact on individuals and society as a whole This volume provides a new perspective on this issue It forges a link between internal migration inequality social exclusion and crime in the context of China through qualitative research into the impact of this phenomenon on individuals lives Using a series of case studies drawn from interviews with inmates men and women in a large Chinese prison it focuses on migrant offenders subjective experiences and analyses issues from the rarely heard perspectives of migrant lawbreakers themselves The research demonstrates how factors including the hukou system rural urban class and gender inequalities prejudices against rural migrants and other structural problems often lead to migrant offending The author argues that to mitigate the effects of criminalisation the root causes of these problems should be examined emphasizing radical reforms to the hukou policy cultural change in urban society to welcome newcomers positive programs to integrate migrant workers into urban societies and improve their opportunities rather than inflicting harsher penalties or reducing migration While the research is based in China it has clear implications for other regions of the world which are experiencing similar tensions related to national and international migration This work will be of interest to researchers in criminology and criminal justice particularly with an interest in Asia as well as those in related fields such as sociology law and social justice

Criminal Punishment and Restorative Justice David J. Cornwell, F. W. M. McElrea, John R. Blad, Robert B. Cormier, 2006 Criminal Punishment and Restorative Justice is an appraisal of the divide that exists between punitive and restorative methods The book looks at events that serve to restrict a greater and more emphatic adoption of restorative justice and its huge potential in contemporary criminal justice developments In an era of increasing and worldwide reliance on imprisonment and other punitive methods the author argues that justice and communities would be far better served by a more enthusiastic and early shift to restorative methods Criminal Punishment and Restorative Justice provides an international perspective on how restorative justice can bring about an altogether more enlightened approach to dealing with offenders and victims alike against a backdrop of often spurious traditional justifications for punishment While acknowledging the need for a constructive use of custody and other corrections in response to serious crime the author points out that the present over reliance on custody can be reduced by challenging offenders to take responsibility for their offenses and to make practical reparation for their wrong doing and repairing the harm that they have caused The book also assesses the potential of restorative justice to make corrections more effective civilized humane and pragmatic in terms of the jurisprudential principles and dynamic power of Shiite Islam not only as a driving force behind political and social change but as a force that has been capable of forging a whole theocratic legal system      General Catalogue of the Public Library of Detroit, Mich Detroit Public Library,1894      N-Z, pages 803-1,110 Brooklyn Library,1880      Catalogue...authors, Titles, Subjects, and Classes Brooklyn Public Library,1880      Catalogue of the Mercantile Library of Brooklyn: N-Z Mercantile Library Association of Brooklyn,1880      Crime, Punishment, and Responsibility Rowan Cruft,Matthew H. Kramer,Mark R. Reiff,2011-07-14 For many years Antony Duff has been one of the world s foremost philosophers of criminal law This volume collects essays by leading criminal law theorists to explore the principal themes in his work In a response to the essays Duff clarifies and develops his position on central problems in criminal law theory Some of the essays concentrate on the topic of criminalization That is they examine what forms of conduct including attempts offensiveness and negligence can aptly qualify as criminal offences and what principled limits if any should be placed on the reach of the criminal law Several of the other essays assess the thesis that punishment is justifiable as a form of communication between offenders and their community Those essays examine the presuppositions about the nature and function of community and about the moral structure of atonement that must be embraced if communication is to be a primary role for punishment The remaining essays examine the nature and limits of responsibility in the law as they engage with philosophical debates over moral luck by investigating the ways in which the law can legitimately hold people responsible for events that were not within their control These chapters tie the first and third parts of the book together as they explore the relationship between the principles that determine a person s responsibility and the principles that determine which types of actions can appropriately be criminalized Finally Duff responds with comments that seek to defend and clarify his views while also acknowledging the correctness of some of the critics objections      Comparative Criminal Justice and Globalization David Nelken,2016-05-23 In this exciting and topical collection leading scholars discuss the implications of globalisation for the fields of comparative criminology and criminal justice How far does it still make sense to distinguish nation states for example in comparing prison rates Is globalisation best treated as an inevitable trend or as an interactive process How can globalisation s effects on space and borders be conceptualised How does it help to create norms and exceptions The editor David Nelken is a Distinguished Scholar of the American Sociological Association a recipient of the Sellin Glueck award of the American Society of Criminology and an Academician of the Academy of Social Sciences UK He teaches a course on Comparative Criminal Justice as Visiting Professor in Criminology at Oxford University s Centre of Criminology      The Law Reports ,1896      House documents ,1896      General Catalogue of the Books Except Fiction, French, and German, in the Public Library of Detroit, Mich Detroit Public Library,1894      International Bibliography on Crime and Delinquency ,1963
