Socio-Environmental Regimes and Local Visions Minerva Arce Ibarra, Manuel Roberto Parra Vázquez, Eduardo Bello Baltazar, Luciana Gomes de Araujo, 2020-09-13 This book presents oral histories collective dialogues and analyses of rural and indigenous livelihoods facing global socio environmental regime change in Latin America LA Since the late twentieth century rural and indigenous producers in LA including agriculturists coffee growers as well as small scale farmers fishers and others have had to resist cope with or adapt to a range of neoliberal socio environmental regimes that impact their territories and associated resources including water production systems and ultimately their cultural traditions In response rural producers are using local visions and innovation niches to decide what when and how to resist cope with uncertainty and still be successful in using their customary laws to retain their land rights and livelihoods This book presents a range of ethnically diverse case studies from LA which addresses socio environmental educational and law regimes effects using transdisciplinary research approaches in rural traditional and indigenous production systems Based on both the results and insights gained into how producers are resisting and adapting to these regimes as well as decades of research carried out in LA rural territories by the participating authors the book puts forward a baseline for devising new public policies that are better suited to the real challenges of livelihoods poverty and environmental degradation in LA These recommendations are rooted in post development thinking they promote territorial public policy with social inclusion and a human's rights approach The book draws on over 20 years of research carried out by LA's academics and their undergraduate and graduate students who have addressed collaborative work participatory research and transdisciplinary approaches with rural commons and communities in LA It features 19 case studies with contributions from Argentina Bolivia Brazil Colombia Cuba Honduras and Mexico Civic Engagement in Contemporary Japan Henk Vinken, Yuko Nishimura, Bruce L. J.

White, Masayuki Deguchi, 2010-03-25 Civic engagement is a concept of action that has become part of common vocabulary not only in the West but also in many other regions of the world as well A growing yet still small number of scholarly works has recently emerged showing how in Japan citizen activism volunteering and social action for a public cause are developing This present volume is another and in my view important addition to the body of knowledge on civic engagement in Japan The majority of books on related issues in Japan take on the perspective of organized civic life in nongovernmental organizations NGOs or nonprofit organizations NPOs we know quite a number of things about the quantitative trends in these organizations on their positioning on their difficulties and on the institutional contexts in which they have to work We know relatively little except for a small number of topical qualitative case studies on broad issues that relate to civic engagement in Japan inside or outside these formal organizations This volume is the first to offer a wide scope of broad variety of forms of civic engagement in contemporary Japan The volume is quite forceful in counterbalancing oversimplified ideas on an ideal civil society in which state market and civil society organizations are in pendent and at best take on oppositional stances

Revolutions from Grub Street Howard Cox, Simon Mowatt, 2014-03 Based on extensive new research the book provides a unique overview of one of Britain s most successful creative industries consumer magazines from its seventeenth century origins into the digital age It charts the revolutions that took place in both technology and industrial organization and the response to these changes

Communication Campaigns and National Integration in China's Market Economy Era Yanru Chen, 2015-09-01 This book adopts the method of grounded theory in studying national communication campaigns in China referred to as propaganda campaigns in the Chinese linguistic context The study provides an exploratory and descriptive analysis of the ways in which the media in China fulfilled their function of building a Socialist spiritual civilisation and maintaining national integration during state propaganda campaigns Explanations for the success and limitations of the campaigns are clearly expressed and combined with cautious statements on the limited role of the media in the process of national integration The three major communication campaigns detailed in this book offer revelations regarding how to maintain mass morale and revive the national spirit at a time when economic pursuits and aspirations seem to be the top priority for individuals and institutions A chief premise underpinning this study is that economic growth is not to be equated with social progress or human development the latter encompassing a far more profound spiritual dimension which takes far more delicate efforts to accomplish
