Real Fantasies Patricia Johnston, 2023-11-15 During the 1920s and 1930s Edward Steichen was the most successful photographer in the advertising industry Although much has been said about Steichen's fine art photography his commercial work which appeared regularly in Vanity Fair Vogue Ladies Home Journal and almost every other popular magazine published in the United States has not received the attention it deserves At a time when photography was just beginning to replace drawings as the favored medium for advertising Steichen helped transform the producers of such products as Welch's grape juice and Jergens lotion from small family businesses to national household names In this book Patricia Johnston uses Steichen's work as a case study of the history of advertising and the American economy between the wars She traces the development of Steichen's work from an early naturalistic style through increasingly calculated attempts to construct consumer fantasies By the 1930s alluring images of romance and class developed in collaboration with agency staff and packaged in overtly manipulative and persuasive photographs became Steichen's stock in trade He was most frequently chosen by agencies for products targeted toward women his images depicted vivacious singles earnest new mothers and other stereotypically female life stages that reveal a great deal about the industry's perceptions of and pitches to this particular audience Johnston presents an intriguing inside view of advertising agencies drawing on an array of internal documents to reconstruct the team process that involved clients art directors account executives copywriters and photographers Her book is a telling chronicle of the role of mass media imagery in reflecting shaping and challenging social values in American culture During the 1920s and 1930s Edward Steichen was the most successful photographer in the advertising industry Although much has been said about Steichen's fine art photography his commercial work which appeared regularly in Vanity Fair Vogue Ladies Ho

Burning the Box of Beautiful Things Alex Seago,1995 Alex Seago's book has been inspired by his desire to understand and discover the origins of postmodern culture in Britain One of the main points of his study is that it was art and design students who were among the first to be aware of and to articulate social implications of postmodern culture Arguing that postwar art schools provided a vital crucible for the development of a particularly English cultural sensibility he focuses on cultural change at the Royal College of Art London during the 1950s and 1960s The students attack on the English box of beautiful things a term used by a former student to describe the neo Romantic neo Victorian highly decorated tastes of some RCA tutors took several forms which eventually resulted in the Pop Art produced by the 1959 62 generation Boshier Phillips Jones Hockney et al Alex Seago traces the emergence of English postmodernism through the pages of ARK The Journal of the Royal College of Art interviewing ARK's editors art editors and contributors including Len Deighton novelist and art editor of ARK 10 Clifford Hatts student at the RCA 1946 8 and later head of the Design Group BBC Peter Blake RCA Painting School 1953 6 Robyn Denny RCA Painting School 1954 7 ARK's object of enquiry remained the elusive but necessary relationships between the arts and the social context throughout its twenty five year history making it a valuable archive for the cultural historian in its most memorable issues ARK's layouts complemented the contents to produce distillations of the energy and enthusiasm of the period under review Senate documents ,1880 Re-envisioning the Everyday John

Fagg,2023-10-03 Often seen as backward looking and convention bound genre painting representing scenes of everyday life was central to the work of twentieth century artists such as John Sloan Norman Rockwell Jacob Lawrence who adapted such subjects to an era of rapid urbanization mass media and modernist art Re envisioning the Everyday asks what their works do to the tradition of genre painting and whether it remains a meaningful category through which to understand them Working with and against the established narrative of American genre painting's late nineteenth century decline into obsolescence John Fagg explores how artists and illustrators used elements of the tradition to picture everyday life in a rapidly changing society whether by appealing to its nostalgic and historical connotations or by updating it to address new formal and thematic concerns Fagg argues that genre painting enabled twentieth century artists to look slowly and carefully at scenes of everyday life and on some occasions to understand those scenes as sites of political oppression and resistance But it also limited them to anachronistic ways of seeing and tied them to a freighted history of stereotyping and condescension By surveying genre painting when its status and relevance were uncertain and by looking at works that stretch and complicate its boundaries this book considers what the form is and probes the wider practice of generic categorization It will appeal to students and scholars of American art history art criticism and cultural studies
