Learning Sofian Audry, 2021-11-23 An examination of machine learning art and its practice in new media art and music Over the past decade an artistic movement has emerged that draws on machine learning as both inspiration and medium In this book transdisciplinary artist researcher Sofian Audry examines artistic practices at the intersection of machine learning and new media art providing conceptual tools and historical perspectives for new media artists musicians composers writers curators and theorists Audry looks at works from a broad range of practices including new media installation robotic art visual art electronic music and sound and electronic literature connecting machine learning art to such earlier artistic practices as cybernetics art artificial life art and evolutionary art Machine learning underlies computational systems that are biologically inspired statistically driven agent based networked entities that program themselves Audry explains the fundamental design of machine learning algorithmic structures in terms accessible to the nonspecialist while framing these technologies within larger historical and conceptual spaces Audry debunks myths about machine learning art including the ideas that machine learning can create art without artists and that machine learning will soon bring about superhuman intelligence and creativity Audry considers learning procedures describing how artists hijack the training process by playing with evaluative functions discusses trainable machines and models explaining how different types of machine learning systems enable different kinds of artistic practices and reviews the role of data in machine learning art showing how artists use data as a raw material to steer learning systems and arguing that machine learning allows for novel forms of algorithmic remixes

In this latest addition to Oxford's Modernist Literature Culture series renowned modernist scholar Michael North poses fundamental questions about the relationship between modernity and comic form in film animation the visual arts and literature Machine Age Comedy vividly constructs a cultural history that spans the entire twentieth century showing how changes wrought by industrialization have forever altered the comic mode With keen analyses North examines the work of a wide range of artists including Charlie Chaplin Walt Disney Marcel Duchamp Samuel Beckett and David Foster Wallace to show the creative and unconventional ways the routinization of industrial society has been explored in a broad array of cultural forms Throughout North argues that modern writers and artists found something inherently comic in new experiences of repetition associated with enforced by and made inevitable by the machine age Ultimately this rich tightly focused study offers a new lens for understanding the development of comedic structures during periods of massive social political and cultural change to reveal how the original promise of modern life can be extracted from its practical disappointment

The Modernity of English Art, 1914-30 David Peters Corbett,1997 The modernity of English art reconceptualises the history of English painting from 1914 to the end of the 1920s Whereas most accounts have tended to see the period as marked by a tension between the native tradition and Modernism this ground breaking book rethinks the 1920s by situating both Modernist and non Modernist painters within a wider cultural history Established figures such as Paul Nash Edward Wadsworth and Wyndham Lewis as well as lesser known artists like Charles Sims John Armstrong and Ethelbert White are discussed and illustrated in a series of innovative readings within this context The modernity of English art offers a new account of painting in England after 1914 and argues for a strongly revisionist view of the significance of the modern during this important but neglected period in English art
