Last Futures Douglas Murphy, 2022-07-19 Whatever happened to the last utopian dreams of the city In the late 1960s the world was faced with impending disaster the height of the Cold War the end of oil and the decline of great cities throughout the world Out of this crisis came a new generation that hoped to build a better future influenced by visions of geodesic domes walking cities and a meaningful connection with nature In this brilliant work of cultural history architect Douglas Murphy traces the lost archeology of the present day through the works of thinkers and designers such as Buckminster Fuller the ecological pioneer Stewart Brand the Archigram architects who envisioned the Plug In City in the 60s as well as co operatives in Vienna communes in the Californian desert and protesters on the streets of Paris In this mind bending account of the last avant garde we see not just the source of our current problems but also some powerful alternative futures

Summer of Love Christoph Grunenberg,Jonathan Harris,Jonathan P. Harris,2005-01-01 Though more than a generation has passed since the revolutionary fervor of the Summer of Love of 1967 the 1960s in many ways seem with us still From recurring debates over the war in Vietnam to the perpetually appealing music of the Beatles and the Rolling Stone to the concern about youth drug use the legacy of the 1960s is ubiquitous in contemporary life The Summer of Love brings together an impressive group of historians artists and cultural critics to present a rich and varied interpretation of this seminal decade and its continuing influence on politics society and culture The Summer of Love which accompanies an exhibition at Tate Liverpool pays particular attention to the wildly creative psychedelic art of the era Perceptive essays on psychedelic comics graphic design and typography light shows and film successfully rescue psychedelic art from the fog of nostalgia and unjust critical neglect Distinguished contributors also explore the role of 1960s fashion and architecture and they consider anew the central influence of hallucinogenic drugs on the art of the era Running throughout the essays are the elements of epochal change from sexual liberation to student revolutions that still form the backdrop of our collective consciousness of the 1960s An incisive collection of writings on all aspects of 1960s art and culture tempered by time and critical distance The Summer of Love will be indispensable for those who wish they had been there or for those who were but can t remember it

Radical Pedagogies Beatriz Colomina,Ignacio G. Galán,Evangelos Kotsioris,Anna-Maria Meister,2022-05-31 Experiments in architectural education in the post World War II era that challenged and transformed architectural discourse and practice In the decades after World War II new forms of learning transformed architectural education These radical experiments sought to upend disciplinary foundations and conventional assumptions about the nature of architecture as much as they challenged modernist and colonial norms decentered building imagined new roles for the architect and envisioned participatory forms of practice Although many of the experimental programs were subsequently abandoned terminated or assimilated they nevertheless helped shape and in some sense define architectural discourse and practice This book explores and documents these radical pedagogies and efforts to defy architecture's status quo The experiments include the adaptation of Bauhaus pedagogy as a means of unlearning under the conditions of decolonization in Africa a movement to design for every body including the disabled by architecture students and faculty at the University of California Berkeley the founding of a support network for women interested in the built environment regardless of their academic backgrounds and a design studio in the USSR that offered an alternative to the widespread functionalist approach in Soviet design Viewed through their dissolution and afterlife as well as through their founding stories these projects from the last century raise provocative questions about architecture's role in the new century Perspective, Projections and Design Mario Carpo, Frédérique Lemerle, 2013-04-15

The essays selected for this book presented in chronological order discuss various aspects of image making technologies geometrical knowledge and tools for architectural design focusing in particular on two historical periods marked by comparable patterns of technological and cultural change The first is the Renaissance characterized by the rediscovery of linear perspectives and the simultaneous rise of new formats for architectural drawing and design on paper the second the contemporary rise of digital technologies and the simultaneous rise of virtual reality and computer based design and manufacturing Many of the contributing authors explore the parallel between the invention of the perspectival paradigm in early modern Europe and the recent development of digitized virtual reality This issue in turn bears on the specific purposes of architectural design where various representational tools and devices are used to visualize bi dimensional aspects of objects that must be measured and eventually built in three dimensional space *Catalog of Copyright Entries. The idea that architecture can be portable is one that grabs the imagination of both designers and the people who use it perhaps because it so often forecasts a dynamic and creative solution to the complex problems of our contemporary mobile society while at the same time dealing with issues of practicality economy and sustainability Architecture in Motion examines the development of portable transportable demountable and temporary architecture from prehistory to the present day From familiar vernacular models such as the tent mobile home and houseboat to ambitious developments in military and construction engineering all aspects of portable building are considered Building on his earlier works Portable Architecture and Houses in Motion Robert Kronenburg compares traditional forms of building current commercial products and the work of innovative designers and examines key contemporary portable buildings to reveal surprising exciting and imaginative examples He explores the philosophical and technological issues raised by these experimental and futuristic prototypes By understanding the nature of transitory architecture a new ecologically aware design strategy can be developed to prioritise buildings that tread lightly on the earth and still convey the sense of identity and community necessary for an established responsible society This book provides a unique insight into this pivotal field of design Catalogue Harvard University. Graduate School of Design. Library,1974 Mobile Jennifer Siegal,2002 This text explores the ever growing range of possibilities of portable demountable and mobile structures The volume includes work by Office of Mobile Design LOT EK and Mark Fisher Using colour images text and detailed drawings the contributors reveal their working methods Portable Architecture Robert Kronenburg,2007-06-07 Ideal for those who have been commissioned or are in competition who want to learn about the very latest developments and trends in the area New introductions to each section focus the remit of the book and make it a complete and comprehensive guide to the topic

Imaginary Cities Darran Anderson,2017-04-06 How can we understand the infinite variety of cities Darran Anderson seems to exhaust all possibilities in this work of creative nonfiction Drawing inspiration from Marco Polo and Italo Calvino Anderson shows that we have much to learn about ourselves by looking not only at the cities we have built but also at the cities we have imagined Anderson draws on literature Gustav Meyrink Franz Kafka Jaroslav Hasek and James Joyce but he also looks at architectural writings and works by the likes of Bruno Taut and Walter Gropius Medieval travel memoirs from the Middle East mid twentieth century comic books Star Trek mythical lands such as Cockaigne and the works of Claude Debussy Anderson sees the visionary architecture dreamed up by architects artists philosophers writers and citizens as wedded to the egalitarian sense that cities are for everyone He proves that we must not be locked into the structures that exclude ordinary citizens that cities evolve and that we can have input As he says If a city can be imagined into being it can be re imagined as well Archigram Simon Sadler,2005-06-24 The first book length critical and historical account of an ultramodern architectural movement of the 1960s that advocated living equipment instead of buildings In the 1960s the architects of Britain s Archigram group and Archigram magazine turned away from conventional architecture to propose cities that move and houses worn like suits of clothes In drawings inspired by pop art and psychedelia architecture floated away tethered by wires gantries tubes and trucks In Archigram Architecture without Architecture Simon Sadler argues that Archigram s sense of fun takes its place beside the other cultural agitants of the 1960s originating attitudes and techniques that became standard for architects rethinking social space and building technology The Archigram style was assembled from the Apollo missions constructivism biology manufacturing electronics and popular culture inspiring an architectural movement High Tech and influencing the postmodern and deconstructivist trends of the late twentieth century Although most Archigram projects were at the limits of possibility and remained unbuilt the six architects at the center of the movement Warren Chalk Peter Cook Dennis Crompton David Greene Ron Herron and Michael Webb became a focal point for the architectural avant garde because they redefined the purpose of architecture Countering the habitual building practice of setting walls and spaces in place Archigram architects wanted to provide the equipment for amplified living and they welcomed any cultural rearrangements that would ensue Archigram Architecture without Architecture the first full length critical and historical account of the Archigram phenomenon traces Archigram from its rediscovery of early modernist verve through its courting of students to its ascent to international notoriety for advocating the disappearance of architecture

City Choreographer Alison Bick Hirsch, 2014-04-15 One of the most prolific and influential landscape architects of the twentieth century Lawrence Halprin 1916 2009 was best known for the FDR Memorial in Washington D C and Sea Ranch the iconic planned community in California These projects as well as vibrant public spaces throughout the country from Ghirardelli Square and Market Street in San Francisco to Lovejoy Fountain Park in Portland and Nicollet Mall in Minneapolis grew out of a participatory design process that was central to Halprin's work and is proving ever more relevant to urban design today In City Choreographer urban designer and historian Alison Bick Hirsch explains and interprets this creative process called the RSVP Cycles referring to the four components resources score valuation and performance With access to a vast archive of drawings and documents Hirsch provides the first close up look at how Halprin changed our ideas about urban landscapes As an urban pioneer he found his frontier in the nation's densely settled metropolitan areas during the 1960s Blurring the line between observer and participant he sought a way to bring openness to the rigidly controlled worlds of architectural modernism and urban renewal With his wife Anna a renowned avant garde dancer and choreographer Halprin organized workshops involving artists dancers and interested citizens that produced scores which then informed his designs City Choreographer situates Halprin within the larger social artistic and environmental ferment of the 1960s and 1970s In doing so it demonstrates his profound impact on the shape of landscape architecture and his work's widening reach into urban and regional development and contemporary concerns of sustainability Who's Who in American Art, 1973
