Managing Water Conflict Ashok Swain, 2004-06-01 Countries are meeting increasing water demand by building reservoirs and by diverting water from one area to another When the water belongs to an international river system these measures lead to riparian conflicts

However water scarcity not only brings conflict to these regions but also plays its part in building cooperation In several international river basins in Asia Africa and the Middle East competing and disputing riparian countries are now moving towards a co operative sharing arrangement The signs of agreements on water sharing may be easy but the real problem is how to keep these arrangements on track Such agreements can positively contribute to peace and cooperation by addressing future needs making sustainable decisions and being progressive in their management Managing Water Conflict looks at these current stresses and likely future scenarios for this vitally important subject Future as Fairness ,2004-01-01 Twenty years after the establishment of the World Commission on Environment and Development the 13 contributions in this interdisciplinary volume offer a broad spectrum of perspectives and research based recommendations on environmental sustainability social justice and the human enterprise The cases explored cover global citizenly rights and obligations environmental health ecological building practices tradable fuel permits forestry and illegal logging local waste management employment and risk assessments the genetic modification debate nuclear and toxic waste global environmental governance and 500 years of globalization Understanding and Preventing Violence Leighton C. Whitaker,2000-06-22 More violence has been perpetrated in the 20th century than in the two previous centuries combined Understanding and Preventing Violence Unmasking the Mentality of Human Destructiveness elucidates the mentality of destructive behavior with the hopes that in the future the trend may be reversed through enlightenment But in order to choose to be Rethinking Water Management Caroline Figueres,Johan Rockstrom,Cecilia Tortajada,2012-05-23 If water resources are to be distributed efficiently equitably and cost effectively in this rapidly changing world then it is clear that current water management practices are no longer feasible Innovative approaches are required to meet the increasing water demands of a growing world population and economy and the needs of the ecosystems supporting them New approaches have to be employed at global national and local levels In Rethinking Water Management a new generation of water experts from around the world examine the critical challenges confronting the water profession including rainwater and groundwater management recycling and reuse water rights transboundary access to water and financing of water They offer important new perspectives on the use management and conservation of fresh water in terms of both quantity and quality for the domestic agricultural and industrial sectors and show how a new set of paradigms can be applied to successfully manage water for the future Caroline Figueres is Head of the Urban Infrastructure Department at UNESCO IHE Water Education Institute in The Netherlands Cecilia Tortajada is Vice President of the Third World Centre for Water Management in Mexico and Vice President elect of the International Water Resources Association Johan Rockstr m is Water Resources Expert at UNESCO IHE
