

Joseph J. Hickey, wildlife ecology professor at the University of Wisconsin describes raptor trappers: "Officially, they want to band birds to learn about their weight and moult, their later movements, their longevity, and all that. Underneath, they are unabashed admirers of the wildness, magnificent strength, and awesome flight of creatures at the top of the animal pyramid. . . they have a youthful zest, and they will endure any hardship and go to any length to catch their birds. Fran is one of these youthful persons. In her own light-hearted way, she portrays here the fascinating development of raptor-trapping techniques in the past few decades, a development in which she played a leading role."

Birding with a Purpose is illustrated by Jack Oar, a bird bander and falconer hobbyist. He has made six annual trips as a member of the Greenland Peregrine Falcon Survey to study and band, and delights in flying his own falcon in the West.
