The Chinese Triangle of Mainland China, Taiwan, and Hong Kong Alvin Y. So, Nan Lin, Dudley Poston, 2001-07-30 The Chinese triangle of mainland China Hong Kong and Taiwan constitutes one of the most dynamic regions in the world economy Since the late 1970s these three societies have experienced increasing economic integration however studies aimed at analyzing and explaining this integration have often overlooked the very important role social institutions have played in the shaping of this process To fill this gap this book adopts a systematic institutional approach designed to examine the different patterns of institutions in the three countries and to discuss how such social institutions as the economy gender social networks and the Chinese diaspora have exerted a profound impact on all three societies The chapters taken together argue that different patterns of institutional configuration have led to divergent paths of development and that this divergence will have significant implications on the prospects for Chinese national reunification in the twenty first century The Introductory chapter provides a historical discussion on the origins and the transformation of the Chinese triangle during the second half of the twentieth century The remainder of the volume is broken into four topics considered crucial for understanding the transformation of the Chinese triangle economic transformation gender social networks and the Chinese diaspora As globalization impacts the Chinese triangle studies that consider the issues from the perspective of social institutions will be increasingly important to understanding the area as it develops in the world economy NGOs in India R. Supporting Physiological Birth Choices in Midwifery Practice Claire Feeley, 2023-02-28

Highlighting the experiences of midwives who provide care to women opting outside of guidelines in the pursuit of physiological birth. Claire Feeley looks at the impact on midwives themselves and explores how teams and organisations support or discourage women's birth choices. This book investigates the processes, experiences and sociocultural political influences upon midwives who support women's alternative birthing choice and argues for a shift in perspective from notions of an individual's professional responsibility to deliver woman-centred care to a broader collective responsibility. The book begins by contextualising the importance of quality midwifery care with an exploration of the current debates to demonstrate how hegemonic birth discourse and maternity practices have detrimentally affected physiological birth rates and the wellbeing of women who opt outside of maternity guidelines. It provides real-life examples of how midwives can facilitate a range of birthing decisions within mainstream midwifery services. Moreover, an exploration of midwives' experiences of delivering such care is presented, revealing deeply polarised accounts from moral injury to job fulfilment. The polarised accounts are then presented within a new model to explore how a midwife's socio-political working context can significantly mediate or exacerbate the vulnerability, conflict and stigmatisation that they may experience as a result of supporting alternative birth choices. Finally, this book explores the implications of the findings, looking at how team and organisational culture can be developed to better support women and midwives making recommendations for a systems approach to improving maternity services. Discussing the invisible nature of midwifery work, what it means to deliver woman-centred care and the challenges and benefits of doing so, this is a thought-provoking read for all midwives and future midwives. It is also an important contribution to interprofessional concerns around workforce development, sustainability, moral distress and compassion in health and social care.
