Birds In Surrey 1900 1970:

Birds in Surrey, 1900-1970 Donald Parr, 1972 Farming and Birds Raymond J. O'Connor, Michael Shrubbs, 1990-03-22

This attractively illustrated book reviews the effects of agricultural development on bird populations in Britain. Examining modern farmland as a bird habitat, it explains the changes both in habitat structure and in available resources that have occurred as a result of mechanisation and use of agrochemicals. Farmland bird communities are described and their composition related to farm structure and land use. Based extensively on empirical data extracted from the British Trust for Ornithology's Common Bird Census and from nest histories recorded in the BTO's Nest Record Scheme, the book presents an important analysis of the position of agricultural bird populations under modern farming systems. Particular examination has been made of the impact of changing methods, rotations and crops which have been underestimated in the past. Resulting from the co-operation between a professional ornithologist and a working cereal farmer, this book provides an objective and informed view of the impact of British agriculture on bird populations.

Atlas of Breeding Birds of the London Area David J. Montier, 1977 The Historical Atlas of Breeding Birds in Britain and Ireland 1875-1900 Simon Holloway, 2010-01-31

The landscape of Britain has been irreversibly changed over the last century. Modern agriculture, urban expansion, industry and transport have all left their mark, altering the face of the countryside forever. Shifting with the changing scene, the fortunes of Britain and Ireland's bird populations have fluctuated dramatically over the years. As current farming practices have evolved, the natural habitats and breeding patterns of many species have been disrupted. Urban and industrial growth has brought with it the pressures of new land use, pesticides, pollution and human interference. The activities of sportsmen, collectors and farmers have also taken their toll over the years. The new Poyser title The Historical Atlas of Breeding Birds in Britain and Ireland 1875-1900 is a fascinating book resulting from years of meticulous research by the author, Simon Holloway, who provides an absorbing account of the distribution changes of Britain and Ireland's birds over the last quarter of a century. Large colour distribution maps and their accompanying text paint a species-by-species picture of a period which completely transformed the landscape of this country. It is, says Natural World magazine, a classic case of why did no one write this book before. The experienced birder, using a knowledge of species requirements, can only marvel at what the long vanished landscapes were then like. Birdwatch praises Simon Holloway's achievement, saying 'This book brings together so much information from disparate sources and its status maps present such a clear picture of our late Victorian avifauna that it should take its place beside the BTO atlases on the bookshelf'. While Birdwatching adds 'If you are interested in the historical side of birds and their populations, this book will be an endless source of fascination'. As with all Poyser publications, the attention to detail, the lovingly produced illustrations and the sheer breadth of knowledge demonstrated by the author.
