

ALBERT NAMATJIRA

A painting of Albert Namatjira, an Indigenous Australian, sitting on a rocky outcrop and painting a landscape on a wooden board. He is wearing a light-colored long-sleeved shirt, blue trousers, and a wide-brimmed hat. He has a dark beard and is looking down at his work. The background shows a vast, hilly landscape with sparse vegetation and a prominent red rock formation on the right. The sky is a mix of blue and white, suggesting a hazy or overcast day.

Aboriginal Art Donna Leslie, 2008. Donna Leslie, a Post doctoral Research Fellow at The University of Melbourne, sets out to demonstrate how Aboriginal art has questioned the assimilationist policies which prevailed in Australia from the 1930s to the 1970s. Her rigorous and sustained argument, supported by an impressive array of important visual images, reveals an extensive grasp of issues relating not only to the practice and history of art but also in fields of anthropology, ethnology and sociology. The book is a rare presentation of aspects of the history of Aboriginal art from an Aboriginal perspective and provides fresh ways of understanding Aboriginal experience. While the author acknowledges the problems faced by Aboriginal peoples, particularly those associated with the former policy of assimilation, her message is positive and encourages a deepening understanding of Aboriginal art, culture and peoples in the spirit of reconciliation. Moreover, she addresses the development of Aboriginal art in the modern Australian city as well as in the more traditional environment of the land.

Indigenous Celebrity Jennifer Adese, Robert Alexander Innes, 2021-04-09. Indigenous Celebrity speaks to the possibilities, challenges and consequences of popular forms of recognition, critically recasting the lens through which we understand Indigenous people's entanglements with celebrity. It presents a wide range of essays that explore the theoretical, material, social, cultural and political impacts of celebrity on and for Indigenous people. It questions and critiques the whitestream concept of celebrity and the very juxtaposition of Indigenous and celebrity, and casts a critical lens on celebrity culture's impact on Indigenous people. Indigenous people who willingly engage with celebrity culture or are drawn up into it enter into a complex terrain of social relations informed by layered dimensions of colonialism, racism, sexism, homophobia, transphobia and classism. Yet this reductive framing of celebrity does not account for the ways that Indigenous people's own worldviews inform Indigenous engagement with celebrity culture or rather popular social and cultural forms of recognition. Indigenous Celebrity reorients conversations on Indigenous celebrity towards understanding how Indigenous people draw from nation-specific processes of respect and recognition while at the same time navigating external assumptions and expectations. This collection examines the relationship of Indigenous people to the concept of celebrity in past, present and
