Warlick,2001-03-15 Surrealist artist Max Ernst defined collage as the alchemy of the visual image Students of his work have often dismissed this comment as simply a metaphor for the transformative power of using found images in a new context Taking a wholly different perspective on Ernst and alchemy however M E Warlick persuasively demonstrates that the artist had a profound and abiding interest in alchemical philosophy and often used alchemical symbolism in works created throughout his career A revival of interest in alchemy swept the artistic psychoanalytic historical and scientific circles of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries and Warlick sets Ernst's work squarely within this movement Looking at both his art many of the works she discusses are reproduced in the book and his writings she reveals how thoroughly alchemical philosophy and symbolism pervade his early Dadaist experiments his foundational work in surrealism and his many collages and paintings of women and landscapes whose images exemplify the alchemical fusing of opposites This pioneering research adds an essential key to understanding the multilayered complexity of Ernst's works as it affirms his standing as one of Germany's most significant artists of the twentieth century Alchemical Symbolism Herbert Silberer,2018-11-28

Prominent among the stones of a fireplace in my country den one large rounded giant stands out It was borne by the glacial streams from a more northern resting place and is marked by a fossil of a mollusk that inhabited northern seas many million years ago Yet in spite of the eons of time that have passed it can be compared with specimens of mollusks that live today Down through the countless centuries the living stream has carved its structural habitations in much the same form The science of Paleontology has collected this history and has attempted a reconstruction of life from its beginnings The same principle here illustrated is true for the thought life of mankind The forms in which it has been preserved however are not so evident The structuralizations are not so definite If they were evolution would not have been possible for the living stream of energy which is utilized by mind stuff cannot be confined if it would advance to more complex integrations Hence the products of mind in evolution are more plastic more subtle and more changing They are to be found in the myths and the folk lore of ancient peoples the poetry dramatic art and the language of later races From age to age however the strivings continue the same The living vessels must continue and the products express the most fundamental strivings in varying though related forms We thus arrive at a science which may be called paleo psychology Its fossils are the thought forms throughout the ages and such a science seeks to show fundamental likenesses behind the more superficial dissimilarities The present work is a contribution to such a science in that it shows the essential relationships of what is found in the
