Retallack, 2012-12-06 Landscapes viewed from afar have a timeless quality that is soothing to the human spirit Yet a tranquil wilderness scene is but a snapshot in the steady stream of surficial change Wind water and human activities reshape the landscape by means of gradual to catastrophic and usually irreversible events Much of this change destroys past landscapes but at some times and places landscapes are buried in the rock record This work is dedicated to the discovery of past landscapes and their life through the fossil record of soils A long history of surficial changes extending back almost to the origin of our planet can be deciphered from the study of these buried soils or paleosols Some rudiments of this history and our place in it are outlined in a final section of this book But first it is necessary to learn something of the language of soils of what happens to them when buried in the rock record and which of the forces of nature can be confidently reconstructed from their remains Much of this preliminary material is borrowed from soil science but throughout emphasis is laid on features that provide most reliable evidence of landscapes during the distant geological past This book has evolved primarily as a text for senior level university courses in paleopedology the study of fossil soils

Coupled Models for the Hydrological Cycle Axel Bronstert,Jesus Carrera,Pavel Kabat,Sabine Lütkeemeier,2005-08-29 Hydrologists climatologists soil scientists and environmental engineers are frequently asked to analyse complex environmental problems It is becoming increasingly apparent that these problems usually involve feedbacks between atmospheric ecological and hydrological systems as well as human society It is often the feedbacks between systems that are of greatest interest because they may produce unanticipated responses That is why coupling of different compartments of the Earth system has emerged as a general challenge to the modelling community This book considers an array of state of the art coupling and modelling concepts First the relevant Earth system cycles are presented followed by a discussion on scale issues and multiple equilibria Inter and intra compartmental coupling is addressed along with a debate on non linearities and questions of parameterisation Several applications are presented where a focus is on cases where the hydrological cycle plays a central role
