Day,2013-11-11 It has been both a pleasure and an honor to edit this book The pleasure has been in interacting with the gifted authors who wrote the chapters for this volume and the honor has been in knowing that the book is dedicated to a great man and a brilliant psychologist Daniel E Berlyne All the contributors to this book have been touched at some time by Dan Berlyne and his ideas Whether as his teachers his colleagues his peers his students or his friends and arguing partners we have all felt his presence and been improved by it The list of contributors to this volume is large and could have been much larger for a number of people in fact contacted me for the opportunity to contribute when they heard about the purpose of this book It is also an international list for Dan Berlyne s contacts were international The diversity in content and style is also intentional The authors were invited to contribute an original paper in the field in which they are presently engaged whether theoretical or a report of empirical work and to indicate the contribution that Dan Berlyne had made to their work As the reader will note contributions range from personal and contact in a laboratory to ideas that elicit controversy argument and intensive research Daniel Ellis Berlyne was born in Selford England a suburb of Manchester in 1924 and died in Toronto Canada on November 2 1976

Reproductive Sciences in Animal Conservation Pierre Comizzoli,Janine L. Brown,William V. Holt,2019-08-30 This second edition emphasizes the environmental impact on reproduction with updated chapters throughout as well as complete new chapters on species such as sharks and rays This is a wide ranging book that will be of relevance to anyone involved in species conservation and provides critical perspectives on the real utility of current and emerging reproductive sciences Understanding reproductive biology is centrally important to the way many of the world's conservation problems should be tackled Currently the extinction problem is huge with up to 30% of the world's fauna being expected to disappear in the next 50 years Nevertheless it has been estimated that the global population of animals in zoos encompasses 12 000 15 000 species and we anticipate that every effort will be made to preserve these species for as long as possible minimizing inbreeding effects and providing the best welfare standards available Even if the reproductive biology community cannot solve the global biodiversity crisis for all wild species we should do our best to maintain important captive populations Reproductive biology in this context is much more than the development of techniques for helping with too little or too much breeding While some of the relevant techniques are useful for individual species that society might target for a variety of reasons whether nationalistic cultural or practical technical developments have to be backed up by thorough biological understanding of the background behind the problems
