Sentencing Reform in Overcrowded Times Michael Tonry, Kathleen Hatlestad, 1997-04-24 Sentencing and corrections issues are much the same in every Western country and increasingly efforts are being made to import policies and practices that have succeeded elsewhere This volume brings together articles on sentencing reform in the United States other English speaking countries Australia Canada England Wales New Zealand South Africa and Western Europe by leading national and international authorities on sentencing policy practices and institutions Short timely and readable the articles originally appeared in the journal Overcrowded Times Together they fill a major gap in the academic and policy literatures and will be essential reading for students scholars and practitioners in the field

The Third Branch , 2009-04 Criminal Dilemmas Katri K. Sieberg, 2006-03-30 Fighting crime breeds emotional responses which often lead to counter productive government policy To allow a rational analysis of these important concerns this book employs the thinking of economics political science and game theory to develop new perspectives on crime and its causes A basic assumption is that the criminal is a rational actor who makes decisions based on his or her personal expected gains and costs By using this assumption predictions about behaviour as well as emotional concerns such as prostitution and gun control are given a theoretical perspective By understanding the strategic variables which cause for example gang wars and drug sales we are better equipped to design effective public policy In the new edition a chapter on police corruption has been added The Gangs chapter has been updated and focuses more on evaluating competing hypotheses about gang organization and activity

Handbook on Contemporary Issues in Health, Crime, and Punishment Nathan W.

Link,Meghan A. Novisky,Chantal Fahmy,2024-10-30 The Handbook on Contemporary Issues in Health Crime and Punishment

covers many topics on the numerous ways in which mental and physical health and criminal justice system contact influence one another and are intricately intertwined. These often mutually reinforcing dynamics affect a range of health and justice outcomes at individual, familial, group, community, and national levels. Contributions detail this topic from a wide range of disciplinary, theoretical, and international perspectives and rely on various analytical lenses including quantitative, qualitative, policy, analytic, theoretical, conceptual, and lived experiences. The chapters summarize what is known in each topical area but as important, they identify emerging theoretical, empirical, and policy directions. In this way, the book is grounded in the current knowledge about the specific topic but also provides new synthesizing material that reflects the knowledge of the leading minds in the field. Conceptually divided into 11 sections, a number of contributions describe the unique experiences of women, people of color, juveniles, older populations, immigrants, LGBTQ individuals, and other sub-populations, i.e., people convicted of drug or sex offenses. Where appropriate, the authors provide both big picture and pragmatic policy directions aimed at reducing system contact, health challenges, and inhumane practices. Given its breadth and depth, the Handbook will appeal broadly to academics, practitioners, policymakers, advocates, and students seeking to understand the many ways in which health and justice system dynamics overlap.

Probation Advocate Pasquale De Marco, 2025-07-23

Probation Advocate is the definitive guide to probation advocacy, providing a comprehensive overview of the role, responsibilities, and best practices for advocates in the American probation system. This timely and essential resource explores the legal framework, ethical considerations, and essential skills required for effective probation advocacy. Probation advocates play a vital role in ensuring the fair and effective administration of probation, safeguarding the rights of probationers and promoting their successful reintegration into society. This book provides a thorough examination of the probation process, from sentencing, mitigation, and supervision to addressing violations and advocating for treatment and rehabilitation. Probation Advocate recognizes the unique challenges faced by special populations in probation, such as juveniles, women, veterans, and individuals with disabilities. It offers tailored guidance on gender-responsive practices, trauma-informed approaches, and advocacy strategies to meet their specific needs. The book draws upon the expertise of Pasquale De Marco, a seasoned probation advocate with extensive experience in the field. Pasquale De Marco's insights and practical knowledge provide a valuable foundation for this comprehensive guide to probation advocacy. Probation Advocate is an indispensable resource for probation advocates, social workers, criminal justice professionals, and anyone seeking a deeper understanding of the probation system. Its comprehensive coverage, practical guidance, and emphasis on advocacy make it an essential tool for promoting fair and effective probation practices. Whether you're a new advocate seeking to build a strong foundation or an experienced professional looking to enhance your skills, Probation Advocate provides the knowledge and tools you need to make a meaningful impact in the lives of probationers and contribute to a more just and equitable society. Children of Incarcerated Parents Judy Krysik, Nancy Rodriguez, 2022-04-11

This book presents multidimensional knowledge on children of incarcerated parents using Bronfenbrenner's ecological theory as an organizing framework. It examines the extent to which different levels of the environment are supportive (i.e., leading to resilience) and stress-producing (i.e., contributing to risk). The volume explores four levels of the environment: microsystem, mesosystem, exosystem, and macrosystem, with specific theories and paradigms woven into the inquiry at each. At the level of child and family, it discusses the factors that influence resilience and risk in children from gestation through young adulthood. At the community level, it addresses risk and resilience in the interactions between children and families and the various systems with which they interact (e.g., child welfare). Key areas of coverage include: A description of the factors that influence the quality of programming for children and their families; A critical analysis of state and national policies that affect which individuals receive or fail to receive specific services; An overview and evaluation of the state of knowledge and implications for research and practice to improve outcomes for children of incarcerated parents; An organizing framework to help researchers identify gaps in the existing knowledge base and distill and organize evidence-based information for practitioners. Children of Incarcerated Parents is an essential resource for researchers, professors, and graduate students as well as practitioners, therapists, and other professionals in child and school psychology, family studies, public health, and all interrelated disciplines including developmental psychology, criminal justice, social work, educational policy, and politics.
