Always Separate Always Connected Independence And Interdependence In Cultural Contexts Of Development:

Always Separate, Always Connected Catherine Raeff, 2006-08-15 This book presents a fresh conceptualization which holds that independence and interdependence are multifaceted and inseparable dimensions of human functioning that may be defined and enacted differently in different cultures Thus the current approach Handbook of Marriage and the Family Gary W. Peterson, Kevin R. Bush, 2012-09-14 The third edition of Handbook of Marriage and the Family describes analyzes synthesizes and critiques the current research and theory about family relationships family structural variations and the role of families in society This updated Handbook provides the most comprehensive state of the art assessment of the existing knowledge of family life with particular attention to variations due to gender socioeconomic race ethnic cultural and life style diversity The Handbook also aims to provide the best synthesis of our existing scholarship on families that will be a primary source for scholars and professionals but also serve as the primary graduate text for graduate courses on family relationships and the roles of families in society In addition the involvement of chapter authors from a variety of fields including family psychology family sociology child development family studies public health and family therapy gives the Handbook a multidisciplinary and interdisciplinary framework Exploring the Dynamics of Human Development Catherine Raeff, 2016 Researchers and students in developmental psychology have pointed out that the numerous findings from research about human development seem disconnected and that it is difficult to fit fragmented bits of information together Studies of separate domains of functioning e g cognition emotion language social relationships identity divide the field and there are increasing calls for integrative conceptions of human development In Exploring the Dynamics of Human Development Dr Catherine Raeff constructs a theoretical framework that enables readers to reconcile seemingly disparate information by thinking systematically about dynamic developmental processes This approach integrates systems theory organismic developmental theory and sociocultural theory as well as research across cultures and the life span Raeff brings developmental processes into coherence by building a unified theoretical framework that is organized around the following questions What develops during development What happens during development and How does development happen Using a wide range of illustrative empirical examples Raeff conceptualizes what happens during development in terms of differentiation and integration and explains how development happens through individual social and cultural processes The framework helps to overcome confusion in the field and explore issues such as individual and cultural variability looking beyond age based changes to understand development and resolving fragmentation by starting with whole person functioning The framework also opens up new directions for research This book will be useful to developmentalists graduate students upper level undergraduates and others who seek an integrative understanding of the field as a whole and a systematic way of thinking about and investigating human action and development Adult Learning and Relationships Paris S. Strom, Robert D. Strom, 2011-04-01 The communication and technology revolution presents each age group of adults with new expectations for learning This book describes how education for young adults 20 to 40 years of age persons of middle age 40 to 60 years of age and older adults age 60 can be differentiated to fulfill changing role demands emerging in response to social transformation Developmental tasks for a society of longevity are defined including why youth should be seen as essential sources of learning for adults Themes for each generation are school work family and personal identity The way to ensure consideration of cultural evolution and cultural preservation is for intergenerational communication to become a common obligation Reliance on age segregated communication is popular and comfortable because peer conversations have greater agreement and less uncertainty However this practice prevents reflection on views regarded as important by other age groups When greater amounts of time are devoted to intergenerational dialogue the usual outcomes are reciprocal learning mutual respect and harmony This book identifies and elaborates the conditions of learning needed to motivate an age integrated society This book is for several audiences Faculty and students studying development will find insights on learning at successive ages Counselors will learn about client needs across the full age range of adulthood Social service providers will recognize transition in family relationships Nurses and administrators will discover ways to help assisted living residents maintain mental abilities and build social networks General readers will understand ways to improve life for relatives friends co workers and themselves

Learning Throughout Life Robert D. Strom, Paris S. Strom, 2012-12-01 The dangers of age segregation and the benefits of age integration are examined Each generation should be recognized as an essential source for learning Harmony will increasingly depend on general awareness of how other age groups interpret events respect for values that guide their behavior responsiveness to their needs and concerns consideration of their criticisms and solutions and acknowledgement of their contributions This book describes a personality assets and mental abilities to focus learning at each stage of development b obstacles to anticipate and overcome c a rationale to make reciprocal learning common d research findings which identify generational learning needs and e benefits of providing lifelong education Six stages are explored infancy and early childhood birth age 6 middle and later childhood ages 6 10 adolescence ages 10 20 early adulthood ages 20 40 middle adulthood ages 40 60 and older adulthood age 60 Some outcomes of lifelong learning include self control patience integrity resilience persistence problem solving ability acceptance of criticism and generativity The intended audiences for this book are professionals working with individuals and families

Mascolo,Jin

Li, 2004-07 The distinction between individualism and collectivism I C has been useful in understanding differences in the world's cultures and the developing selves that they spawn Contributing chapters to this volume examine the multiplicity of developing selfhood that exists within and between cultures In so doing they explore the coexistence of self cultivation and social obligation among the Chinese the coexistence of deep spiritual interiority and social duty in urban India changing patterns of identity in immigrant families and how autonomy functions in the service of social relations among American adolescents A unifying theme in the chapters argues that individuality and connectedness cannot exist independent of each other Although there are dramatic differences in how they are constructed individual and communal dimensions of selfhood must be represented in some form in selves that develop in all cultures The traditional view of I C holds that in individualist most North American and Western European cultures individuals develop a sense of self as separate autonomous and independent of others In contrast collectivist cultures for example many Asian cultures place primary value on group orientation the goals and needs of others and readiness to cooperate However despite its utility the I C dimension can obscure an analysis of the complexity of selves that develop in individualist and collectivist cultures Individuality and interiority are represented in selves that develop within cultures considered collectivistic conversely selves in individualist cultures are defined through relations with others This work represents a breakthrough in understanding the complex and inter related issues of I C in both individualist and collectivist cultures This is the 104th volume of the Jossey Bass quarterly report series New Directions for Child and Adolescent Development

Exploring the Complexities of Human Action

Catherine Raeff, 2020 Exploring the Complexities of Human Action offers a bold theoretical framework for thinking systematically and integratively about what people do as they go about their complex lives in all corners of the world The book offers a vision of humanity that promotes empathic understanding of complex human beings that can bring people together to pursue common goals Raeff sets the stage for conceptualizing human action by characterizing what people do in terms of the complexities of holism dynamics variability and multi causality She also constructively questions some conventional practices and assumptions in psychology e g fragmenting objectifying aggregating deterministic causality Raeff then articulates a systems conceptualization of action that emphasizes multiple and interrelated processes This integrative conceptualization holds that action is constituted by simultaneously occurring and interrelated individual social cultural bodily and environmental processes Action is further conceptualized in terms of simultaneously occurring and interrelated psychological processes e g sensing perceiving thinking feeling interacting self identity as well as developmental processes This theoretical framework is informed by research in varied cultures and accessible examples are used to illustrate major concepts and claims Raeff also discusses some implications and applications of the theoretical framework for investigating the complexities of human action The book shows how the theoretical framework can be used to think about a wide range of action from eating to art Raeff uses the theoretical framework to consider varied vexing human issues including mind body
