Bernard, 2024-11-18 Originally published in 1925 according to the preface Instinct A Study in Social Psychology is the result of many years of interrupted labors that began in a graduate seminar in 1909 1910 when the author attempted to apply Professor McDougall's classification of instincts to the classification of criminals The immediate result was the conviction that McDougall's instincts were habits and further constructive work found issue in an unpublished report on Instinct and the Social Sciences taking issue with McDougall's viewpoint regarding the significance of the theory of instincts then prevalent for the social sciences Finally completed after many years in the making this work is the result of the author's investigations on the topic of instinct Today it can be read in its historical context This book is a re issue originally published in 1925 The language used and views portrayed are a reflection of its era and no offence is meant by the Publishers to any reader by this re publication      Phrenology Examined, and Shown to be Inconsistent with the Principles of Physiology [sic], Mental and Moral Science, and the Doctrines of Christianity Nathan Lewis Rice, 1849      Essays on human rights and their political guarantees Elisha P. Hurlbut, 1847      The Arena , 1905      Edinburgh Veterinary Review and Annals of Comparative Pathology , 1863      Economists and War Fabrizio Bientinesi, Rosario Patalano, 2016-11-03 War and economic power have been interwoven in the thought of scholars since the beginnings of economic science and views on the role of war in the economy have shifted dramatically as the world order has changed The centenary of World War I has offered the opportunity for increased reflection on this topic particularly as the war itself stimulated new directions for both research and the development of theory Economists and War brings together expert contributors who are united in their commitment to exploring this classic subject from innovative and heterodox points of view The chapters presented in the book delve into a wide range of perspectives from Japan in the Second World War and Italy in the First the debate on State intervention among German speaking authors to the debate on the economic bases of perpetual peace and from Keynes who wrote on the irrationality of war to Sismondi who saw war as an opportunity for economic development and not only for nation states This volume is essential reading for scholars of the history of economic thought international political economy and intellectual history It is also of great interest to those studying military and naval history      A History of British Birds Henry Seebohm, 1884      The Phrenological Journal, and Magazine of Moral Science , 1842      Phrenological Journal and Magazine of Moral Science , 1842      The Phrenologiccal Journal and Magazine of Moral Science , 1842      The Principles of Physiology Johann August Unzer, 1851      The Annals & Magazine of Natural History , 1880      Catharine Trotter Cockburn Ruth Boeker, 2023-07-13 This Element offers the first detailed study of Catharine Trotter Cockburn's philosophy and covers her contributions to philosophical debates in epistemology metaphysics moral philosophy and philosophy of religion It not only examines Cockburn's view that sensation and reflection are the sources of knowledge but also how she draws attention to the limitations of human understanding and how she approaches metaphysical debates through this lens In the area of moral philosophy this Element argues that it is helpful to take seriously Cockburn's distinction between questions concerning the metaphysical foundation of morality and questions concerning the practice of morality Moreover this Element examines Cockburn's religious views and considers her understanding of the relation between morality and religion and her religious views concerning the resurrection and the afterlife Invention And The Unconscious Joseph-Marie

Montmasson, 2013-07-04 This is Volume X in a series of twenty one in a collection on Cognitive Psychology Originally published in 1931 in this book M Montmasson is concerned to demonstrate a fact of the first importance easily overlooked The fact is this that human inventions in the widest sense of the word are products of the unconscious Psychology [transl.].
