

BLOOD DEFICIENCY VS BLOOD STASIS

In TCM, a blood deficiency will result in a pale tongue with little or no coating. It is often associated with an iron or B12 deficient anemia.

Blood stasis is seen with a purple tongue and little black spots is associated with inflammatory conditions involving blood vessels. Often these individuals have varicose veins, Raynaud's syndrome, easy bruising and issues with oxygen diffusion into extremities.

Blood on the Tongue Stephen Booth, 2003 Guilt sacrifice and redemption in a freezing Peak District winter in this tense psychological thriller from the acclaimed author of Black Dog A dark star may be born Reginald Hill It wasn't the easiest way to commit suicide Marie Tennent seemed to have just curled up in the freezing snow on Irontongue Hill and stayed there until her body was frosted over like a supermarket chicken And hers isn't the only death the police have to contend with either not after the discovery of a baby in the wreckage of an old Airforce bomber and the body of a man dumped by a roadside As if three bodies on her hands isn't enough snow and ice have left half of E Division out of action and Diane Fry is forced to partner DC Gavin Murfin She and Ben Cooper were never a match made in heaven but next to Murfin working with Ben starts to look like a dream He's on a trail of his own though and one as cold as the Peak District January In an equally bitter winter in 1945 an RAF bomber crashed on Irontongue Hill killing everyone except the pilot who walked away and disappeared Now his grand daughter Alison Morrissey is in Derbyshire desperate to clear his name and Ben can't help taking an interest But is a fifty year old mystery really the best use of police time Or does a vicious attack in the dark Edendale backstreets prove that the trail's not quite as cold as he'd thought Could the past be the only clue to present violence as an icy winter looks set to get even chillier
