Prison Religion Winnifred Fallers Sullivan, 2011-09-26 More than the citizens of most countries Americans are either religious or in jail or both But what does it mean when imprisonment and evangelization actually go hand in hand or at least appear to What do faith based prison programs mean for the constitutional separation of church and state particularly when prisoners who participate get special privileges In Prison Religion law and religion scholar Winnifred Fallers Sullivan takes up these and other important questions through a close examination of a 2005 lawsuit challenging the constitutionality of a faith based residential rehabilitation program in an Iowa state prison Americans United for the Separation of Church and State v Prison Fellowship Ministries a trial in which Sullivan served as an expert witness centered on the constitutionality of allowing religious organizations to operate programs in state run facilities Using the trial as a case study Sullivan argues that separation of church and state is no longer possible Religious authority has shifted from institutions to individuals making it difficult to define religion let alone disentangle it from the state Prison Religion casts new light on church state law the debate over government funded faith based programs and the predicament of prisoners who have precious little choice about what kind of rehabilitation they receive if they are offered any at all

Cartledge,Sarah Dunlop,Heather Buckingham,Sophie Bremner,2019-06-07 This book is the first detailed academic study of megachurches in the UK In particular it explores the nature and significance of social engagement by megachurches in the context of London The research contains empirical case studies of two Anglican and three African diaspora Pentecostal churches As well as exploring the range of social engagement activities provided by these churches the study offers explanations in term of theological motivations and the influence of globalisation Subsequently the book outlines the importance of the findings for the relationship between church and society in the contemporary context addressing the implications for social policy and practice The book advances discussions in public theology megachurch studies Pentecostal and Charismatic studies and ecclesiology Foundational Social Ritual Practices of Parish Life Michael J. McCallion,2022-01-12 This book highlights for professional parish ministers the vital importance of the foundational or pre communal aspects that make a parish community healthy and strong It provides not a sociology of the parish but a sociology of the first ingredients that go into making a parish community It is not therefore a book explaining or analyzing the organizational dimensions or social structures that make up a parish such as the roles and statuses needed for a parish to function Rather the book examines the formation of relationships in the first place within the context of a parish and how such relationships might be maintained over time Upward social mobility is a deterrent to forming such relationships while social ritual practices such as eating together are a means for establishing and sustaining parish relationships The book is theoretically grounded in the work of Emile Durkheim who discusses in minute detail the ingredients of social solidarity and community life in his classic work The Elementary Forms of Religious Life

Shalom, the Spirit and Pentecostal Conversion Grace Milton, 2015-08-17 In Shalom the Spirit and Pentecostal Conversion Grace Milton presents a uniquely practical theological model of Pentecostal conversion centered on empirical data from a congregational case study Pentecostal Charismatic conversion is commonly equated with a dramatic Damascus road type event which directly opposes prevailing theories within the social sciences that conversion is a more gradual process over time This raises the question how far do these Pentecostal stereotypes reflect lived experience In this book for the first time the experiences and beliefs of ordinary Pentecostal believers are drawn into conversation with conversion theories from the human sciences sociology psychology and anthropology and theology The result is a distinctly Pentecostal model of conversion which interprets religious transformation through the theological lens of Shalom
