Altrive Tales James Hogg, 1832 The Lauread, a Literary, Political, and Naval Satire. By the Author of Cavendish [W. Johnson Neale]. In Four Books. Book the First, 1833 British Short Fiction in the Early Nineteenth Century Dr Tim Killick, 2013-04-28 In spite of the importance of the idea of the tale within Romantic era literature short fiction of the period has received little attention from critics Contextualizing British short fiction within the broader framework of early nineteenth century print culture Tim Killick argues that authors and publishers sought to present short fiction in book length volumes as a way of competing with the novel as a legitimate and prestigious genre Beginning with an overview of the development of short fiction through the late eighteenth century and analysis of the publishing conditions for the genre including its appearance in magazines and annuals Killick shows how Washington Irving's hugely popular collections set the stage for British writers Subsequent chapters consider the stories and sketches of writers as diverse as Mary Russell Mitford and James Hogg as well as didactic short fiction by authors such as Hannah More Maria Edgeworth and Amelia Opie His book makes a convincing case for the evolution of short fiction into a self conscious intentionally modern form with its own techniques and imperatives separate from those of the novel Macphail's Edinburgh ecclesiastical journal and literary review, 1862 The Museum of Foreign Literature, Science, and Art Robert Walsh, Eliakim Littell, John Jay Smith, 1832 The American Monthly Magazine, 1834 Reading in History Bonnie Gunzenhauser, 2015-10-06 A collection of essays that offer a methodological framework for the history of reading Focusing on a specific historical moment it gathers statistics about such issues as literacy rates library subscriptions publication and sales figures and print runs to answer questions about what was being read and by whom in a particular place and time James Hogg and the Literary Marketplace Holly Faith Nelson, 2016-12-14 Responding to the resurgence of interest in the Scottish working class writer James Hogg Sharon Alker and Holly Faith Nelson offer the first edited collection devoted to an examination of the critical implications of his writings and their position in the Edinburgh and London literary marketplaces Writing during a particularly complex time in Scottish literary history Hogg a working shepherd for much of his life is seen to challenge many of the aesthetic conventions adopted by his contemporaries and to anticipate many of the concerns voiced in discussions of literature in recent years While the essays privilege Hogg's primary texts and read them closely in their immediate cultural context the volume's contributors also introduce relevant research on oral culture nationalism transnationalism intertextuality class colonialism empire psychology and aesthetics where they serve to illuminate Hogg's literary ingenuity as a working class writer in Romantic Scotland Critical Dictionary of English Literature, and British and American Authors, Living and Deceased, from the Earliest Accounts to the Middle of the Nineteenth Century Samuel Austin Allibone, 1859 A Critical Dictionary of English Literature and British and American Authors, Living and Deceased, from the Earliest Accounts to the Middle of the Nineteenth Century, Containing Thirty Thousand Biographies and Literary
