194X Andrew Michael Shanken, 2009 During the Second World War American architecture was in a state of crisis The rationing of building materials and restrictions on nonmilitary construction continued the privations that the profession had endured during the Great Depression At the same time the dramatic events of the 1930s and 1940s led many architects to believe that their profession and society itself would undergo a profound shift once the war ended with private commissions giving way to centrally planned projects The magazine Architectural Forum coined the term 194X to encapsulate this wartime vision of postwar architecture and urbanism In a major study of American architecture during World War II Andrew M Shanken focuses on the culture of anticipation that arose in this period as out of work architects turned their energies from the built to the unbuilt redefining themselves as planners and creating original designs to excite the public about postwar architecture Shanken recasts the wartime era as a crucible for the intermingling of modernist architecture and consumer culture Challenging the pervasive idea that corporate capitalism corrupted the idealism of modernist architecture in the postwar era 194X shows instead that architecture's wartime partnership with corporate American was founded on shared anxieties and ideals Business and architecture were brought together in innovative ways as shown by Shanken's persuasive reading of magazine advertisements for Revere Copper and Brass U S Gypsum General Electric and other companies that prominently featured the work of leading progressive architects including Louis I Kahn Eero Saarinen and Walter Gropius Although the unexpected prosperity of the postwar era made the architecture of 194X obsolete before it could be built and led to its exclusion from the story of twentieth century American architecture Shanken makes clear that its anticipatory rhetoric and designs played a crucial role in the widespread acceptance

Re-Humanizing Architecture Ákos Moravánszky, Judith Hopfengärtner, 2016-12-19 After the Second World War a divided Europe was much affected by a period of reconstruction This was influenced by the different political systems in the socialist East and in the capitalist West the focus was on cohesion in society and its cultural and architectural expression In parallel to the rapidly progressing industrialization of the building industry debates on the humanization of the built environment were led on both sides with great intensity The volume shows how on the back of existentialism new monumentality and socialist realism quite similar concepts and strategies were developed in order to find answers to questions relating to adequate structures for new forms of community and identity      Architects' Drawings Kendra Schank Smith, 2005 Here for the first time a wide range of world famous architects sketches from the Renaissance to the present day can be seen in a single volume The sketches have been selected to represent the concepts or philosophies of the key movements in architecture in order to develop an overall picture of the role of the sketch in the development of architecture The book illustrates the work of designers as diverse as Andrea Palladio Erich Mendelsohn Sir Edwin Lutyens Gianlorenzo Bernini Le Corbusier Michelangelo Alvar Aalto Sir John Soane Francesco Borromini Walter Gropius and contemporary architects Tadao Ando Zaha Hadid and Frank Gehry to name but a few Each chronologically placed sketch is accompanied by text providing details about the architect's life a look at the sketch in context and the connection to specific buildings where appropriate Style media and meaning are also discussed developing an explanation of the architect's thinking and intentions BOOKJACKET      The Cultural Role of Architecture Paul Emmons, John Shannon Hendrix, Jane Lomholt, 2012 Exploring the ambiguities of how we define the word culture in our global society this book identifies its imprint on architectural ideas Chapters written by international academics in history theory and philosophy of architecture examine how different modes of representation throughout history have drawn profound meanings from cultural practices and beliefs      Life-Cycle Civil Engineering: Innovation, Theory and Practice Airong Chen, Xin Ruan, Dan M.
