Architecture and Identity Peter Herrle,Erik Wegerhoff,2008 This book brings together complex fields of knowledge and globally splintered discourses on a subject that is experienced not only by scholars but in the everyday lives of people around the world There is a common complaint about the loss of identity which to a substantial degree is being associated with the built environment in cities and specifically with their architecture Architecture and Identity takes a global multidisciplinary look on how identities in contemporary architecture are constructed The general hypothesis underlying this book is that in a globalized world identity in architecture cannot be easily derived from distinct indigenous patterns The book presents forty contributions from various disciplines aiming to destroy the myth of an inheritable or otherwise prefabricated identity Some authors dismantle constructs of identity that have long been considered as solid and unbreakable while others meticulously unravel the construction process of identities in

Tools for Ideas Christian Gänschert,2012-10-11 Architects today must position themselves within an extremely wide ranging field of qualifications This makes it all the more important to have a fresh introduction to the field that makes up one of their core competences the field of design This introductory presentation describes and analyzes the theories strategies and tools of creative design for the purposes of practical work With thoughtfulness and expertise it opens the reader's eyes to the processes that underlie design and demonstrates different ways of communicating about complex design work. The first section focuses on the much-discussed relationship between design and research between architecture and the sciences. The second section describes basic design approaches from Vitruvius and Alberti through Erwin Panofsky and Wolfgang Kemp to Otl Aicher and Vilém Flusser. The third and largest section presents the elementary tools of design from gestures and words through drawings, models, and simulations to critique all as instruments of creative design in architecture and its related fields. Pritzker Architecture Prize Martha Thorne, Amery Colin, 1999-05. Steven Holl, 1986-1996 Steven Holl, 1996. Icons of Architecture Sabine Thiel-Siling, 2005. An overview of twentieth-century architecture featuring short essays on innovations in design and profiles of architects. Includes photos, drawings, and building plans. Resisting Postmodern Architecture Stylianos Giamarellos, 2022-01-10. Since its first appearance in 1981, critical regionalism has enjoyed a celebrated worldwide reception. The 1990s increased its pertinence as an architectural theory that defends the cultural identity of a place, resisting the homogenising onslaught of globalisation. Today its main principles, such as acknowledging the climate, history, materials, culture, and topography of a specific place, are integrated in architects' education across the globe. But at the same time, the richer cross-cultural history of critical regionalism has been reduced to schematic juxtapositions of the global with the local. Retrieving both the globalising branches and the overlooked cross-cultural roots of critical regionalism, Resisting Postmodern Architecture resituates critical regionalism within the wider framework of debates around postmodern architecture, the diverse contexts from which it emerged, and the cultural media complex that conditioned its reception. In so doing, it explores the intersection of three areas of growing historical and theoretical interest: postmodernism, critical regionalism, and globalisation. Based on more than 50 interviews and previously unpublished archival material from six countries, the book transgresses existing barriers to integrate sources in other languages into anglophone architectural scholarship. In so doing, it shows how the periphery was not just a passive recipient but also an active generator of architectural theory and practice. Stylianos Giamarellos challenges long-held central notions of supposedly international discourses of the recent past and outlines critical regionalism as an unfinished project apposite for the 21st century on the fronts of architectural theory, history, and historiography. matières 9: espace architectural, 2008-01-01. Pour la critique et l'histoire de l'architecture, le mot espace a été de plus en plus employé pour décrire les bâtiments. À partir de la fin du XIXe siècle, il demeurait jusqu'alors absent du vocabulaire architectural. Mais ses significations sont complexes et quelquefois floues, notamment lorsque la perception de l'espace implique le déplacement, c'est-à-dire la durée ou le temps. Ses significations peuvent être aussi diverses. L'objectif de cette neuvième livraison de matières est d'approcher la question de l'espace à partir de plusieurs points de vue. Les contributions procèdent des lectures de dispositifs architecturaux sp

Historia crítica de la arquitectura moderna Kenneth Frampton, 2024-04-02 Desde su primera edición en 1980 la Historia crítica de la arquitectura moderna de Kenneth Frampton se ha convertido en un clásico imprescindible dentro de la bibliografía académica sobre historia de la arquitectura moderna. En ella se examinan las diversas formas en que los arquitectos no solo responden a los contextos geográficos climáticos materiales y culturales sino que siguen también distintas líneas de enfoque en relación a la topografía la morfología la sostenibilidad y la forma crítica.

The Projective Cast Robin Evans, 2000-08-25 Robin Evans recasts the idea of the relationship between geometry and architecture drawing on mathematics engineering art history and aesthetics to uncover processes in the imagining and realizing of architectural form. Anyone reviewing the history of architectural theory Robin Evans observes would have to conclude that architects do not produce geometry but rather consume it. In this long awaited book completed shortly before its author's death Evans recasts the idea of the relationship between geometry and architecture drawing on mathematics engineering art history and aesthetics to uncover processes in the imagining and realizing of architectural form. He shows that geometry does not always play a stolid and dormant role but in fact may be an active agent in the links between thinking and imagination imagination and drawing drawing and building. He suggests a theory of architecture that is based on the many transactions between architecture and geometry as evidenced in individual buildings largely in Europe from the fifteenth to the twentieth century. From the Henry VII chapel at Westminster Abbey to Le Corbusier's Ronchamp from Raphael's St Eligio and the work of Piero della Francesca and Philibert Delorme to Guarino Guarini and the painters of cubism Evans explores the geometries involved asking whether they are in fact the stable underpinnings of the creative intuitive or rhetorical aspects of architecture. In particular he concentrates on the history of architectural projection the geometry of vision that has become an internalized and pervasive pictorial method of construction and that until now has played only a small part in the development of architectural theory. Evans describes the ambivalent role that pictures play in architecture and urges resistance to the idea that pictures provide all that architects need suggesting that there is much more within the scope of the architect's vision of a project than what can be drawn. He defines the different fields of projective transmission that concern architecture and investigates the ambiguities of projection and the interaction of imagination with projection and its metaphors.
