Mountain Windsong Robert J. Conley,2014-10-30 Set against the tragic events of the Cherokees removal from their traditional lands in North Carolina to Indian Territory between 1835-1838 Mountain Windsong is a love story that brings to life the suffering and endurance of the Cherokee people It is the moving tale of Waguli Whippoorwill and Oconeechee a young Cherokee man and woman separated by the Trail of Tears Just as they are about to be married Waguli is captured by federal soldiers and along with thousands of other Cherokees taken west on foot and then by steamboat to what is now eastern Oklahoma Though many die along the way Waguli survives drowning his shame and sorrow in alcohol Oconeechee among the few Cherokees who remain behind hidden in the mountains embarks on a courageous search for Waguli Robert J Conley makes use of song legend and historical documents to weave the rich texture of the story which is told through several sometimes contradictory voices The traditional narrative of the Trail of Tears is told to a young contemporary

Cherokee boy by his grandfather presented in bits and pieces as they go about their everyday chores in rural North Carolina The telling is neither bitter nor hostile it is sympathetic by unsentimental An ironic third point of view detached and often adversarial is provided by the historical documents interspersed through the novel from the text of the removal treaty to Ralph Waldo Emerson's letter to the president of the United States in protest of the removal In this layering of contradictory elements Conley implies questions about the relationships between history and legend storytelling and myth making Inspired by the lyrics of Don Grooms's song Whippoorwill which open many chapters in the text Conley has written a novel both meticulously accurate and deeply moving
