Measurement of intra-household resource control: Exploring the validity of experimental measures Ambler, Kate, Jones, Kelly M., Recalde, Maria P., 2020-12-17 We study the validity of experimental methods designed to measure preferences for intra household resource control among spouses in Ghana and Uganda We implement two incentivized tasks 1 a game that measures willingness to pay to control resources and 2 private and joint dictator games that measure preferences for resource allocation and the extent to which those preferences are reflected in joint decisions Behavior in the two tasks is correlated suggesting that they describe similar underlying latent variables In Uganda the experimental measures are robustly correlated with a range of household survey measures of resource control and women s empowerment and suggest that simple private dictator games may be as informative as more sophisticated tasks In Ghana the experimental measures are not predictive of survey indicators suggesting that context may be an important element of whether experimental measures are informative

ICT in Libraries: A Theoretical Approach Mr. Harihararao Mojjada, 2025-01-25 Fashioning Feminism in Cuba and Beyond Brigida M. Pastor, 2003 Though open public discussion of the oppression of women was precluded by the nature of Hispanic societies during the nineteenth century some Hispanic women among them the Cuban writer Gertrudis Gomez de Avellaneda subtly sought to promote ideas of emancipation Focusing upon her autobiographical letters and a selection of her novels and drawing on contemporary psychoanalytical feminist theory this book traces the evolution of Avellaneda s feminism showing how she developed a series of narrative techniques and stylistic resources to explore male and female self representation and subvert the existing textual tradition Fashioning Feminism in Cuba and Beyond establishes Avellaneda at the forefront of both Cuban and Hispanic nineteenth century literature and feminist thought An Historical Account of the British Trade Over the Caspian Sea, with the Autor's Journal of Travels Through Russia Into Persia by Jonas Hanway

Standing as a testament to Iraq's enduring spirit and its deep rooted tradition of political theatre this volume expands on the previous instalment showcasing the themes and dramatic styles that help define the country's art. From grappling with trauma, terrorism and alienation to portraying love, resilience and resistance, these plays offer a vivid portrayal of post-invasion Iraq, serving as an essential anthology for theatre enthusiasts, Middle Eastern theatre students and anyone curious about the human stories emerging from this turbulent period. More than a collection of plays, though each work includes a personal introduction by its playwright, shedding light on their creative motivations and the historical backdrop that inspired these powerful pieces. Through these translated plays, Contemporary Plays from Iraq Volume II brings to the forefront narratives often overlooked or silenced, highlighting the experiences of those marginalized by conflict, extremism and societal norms. Featuring a general introduction that provides a more focused exploration of the issues, themes, challenges and dramatic styles that define contemporary theatre in Iraq after the war, as well as serving as a vital roadmap for understanding the broader context in which these plays unfold. Unique, comprehensive and diverse in its exploration of Iraqi theatre and enriched by the insights of the playwrights themselves, this is a collection of voices that deserve to be heard and understood. Garry Weare is enigmatic, funny and he has an enormous conscience. He brings into the story of his Himalayan traverse a succession of vignettes about people's lives that he meets along the way, relevant history, natural history, observations and a delightful sprinkling of his inimitable sense of humour. The warmth of his relationships with his old Kashmiri friends and various people from the trekking fraternity adds a wonderful dimension to this journeyman's tale. Peter Hillary Weare's finely rendered story of his five-month trek from the sacred source of the Ganges through the Kullu Valley, Zaskar and Ladakh to his houseboat in Kashmir is remarkably entertaining. The people he meets and travels with are fully fledged characters that the reader comes to know and care about while the Himalaya captured in all their variety cast their spell. It is as if the act of walking allows the author to fully understand all the nuances, spiritual, environmental, social and political of this inspiring region. A Long Walk in the Himalaya is a book to savour, a book that the reader will return to again and again. English-born Garry Weare has had a long-standing relationship with the Himalaya. In 1970 he first went to Kashmir to teach. It changed his life and he went on to live on a houseboat in Kashmir, to pioneer many classic treks and to research the Trekking in the Indian Himalaya guidebook published by Lonely Planet, now in its 4th edition. Weare is a life member of the Himalayan Club, a fellow of the Royal

Geographical Society a noted mountain photographer and a founding director of the Australian Himalayan Foundation He has one daughter two stepdaughters and lives with his wife Margie Thomas in the Southern Highlands NSW
