mutually incomprehensible dialects owed allegiance to different leaders worshiped in different churches and would not have recognized each other's customs. If asked about their identity these prospective Germans might have answered Austrian, Bavarian or Prussian and they could as easily have used more local labels or resorted to occupational markers. For this disparate population to think of itself as German that word had to acquire content; people had to learn a whole set of stories they could tell themselves and to others in answer to the question of identity. History Fiction and Germany chronicles how German nationalism developed simultaneously with the historical novel and the field of history both at universities and in middlebrow reading material. The book examines Germany's emerging national narrative as nineteenth century writers adapted it to their own visions and to changing circumstances. These writers found and popularized the nation's heroes and heroines, demonized its villains and enemies and projected the nation's hopes and dreams for the future. Author Brent O. Peterson argues that it was the production and consumption of national history, the writing and reading of the nation that filled Germany with Germans. Although the task of national narration was never complete and never produced a single universally accepted version of German national identity, tales from Germans gradually shared history did more to create Germany than any statesman, general or philosopher. History Fiction and Germany provides a valuable resource for scholars and students of German studies as well as anyone interested in history and the articulation of national identity. The NAEP ... Technical Report, 1992 Difference and Community, 2022-03-07 This volume brings together essays which suggest that the relationship between Canada and Europe is a two way process as historically the traffic between them has been either way may have something to offer the other. Europe too acknowledges situations today in which difference and community are hard terms to reconcile. Difference refers to gender, sexuality, race, nationality or language. Community is the collective understanding which must continually be renegotiated and reconstructed among these factors. The Canadian-European connection is one in which it seems especially appropriate to explore such circumstances. The topics covered include pioneer women's writing, transcultural women's fiction, canonical taxonomy of the contemporary novel, the city poem in Confederate Canada, poetry of the Great War, various ethno-cultural perspectives, Jewish, South Asian, Italian, Native reappropriations, Quebec cinema, literature and the media and small press publishing. Some of the authors treated: Sandra Birdsell, Nicole Brossard, Jack Hodgins, Henry Kreis, Robert Kroetsch, Janice Kulyk Keefer, Archibald Lampman, Malcolm Lowry, Lesley Lum, Daphne Marlatt, Susanna Moodie, Bharati Mukherjee, Alice Munro, Frank Paci and Susan Swan. Ball Tales, Michelle Nolan, 2014-11-26 This history of American sports fiction traces depictions of baseball, basketball and football in works for all age levels from early dime novels through the 1960s. Chapters cover dime novel heroes, Frank and Dick Merriwell, the explosion of sports novels before World War II and its influence on the authors who later wrote for baby boom readers, how sports novels persisted during the Great Depression, the rise and decline of sports pulps, why sports comics failed, postwar heroes, Chip Hilton and Bronc Burnett, the lack of sports fiction for females, Duane Decker's Blue Sox books.

and the classic John R Tunis novels Appendices list sports pulp titles and comic books featuring sports fiction      The Story of Cuba Murat Halstead,1898      Motherlove in Shades of Black Gloria Thomas Pillow,2014-01-10 This book closely examines the mother figure in six works by African American women at various times in American history Harriet Jacobs s Incidents in the Life of a Slave Girl Pauline Hopkins s Contending Forces Nella Larsen s Passing Gwendolyn Brooks s Maud Martha Alice Walker s The Color Purple and Toni Morrison s Beloved It studies how the mother in each novel negotiates the ragged hostile landscape of a prohibitive environment to love protect and raise her children Delving far deeper than surface explanations it is informed by psychological analysis to reveal the forces that create the unique tensions of the African American mother s life her inspired strategies for survival and the character of the nurturing she gives her children
