New Women's Writing in African Literature Ernest Emenyonu, Patricia Thornton Emenyonu, 2004 African women writers have come a long way since the 1960s when they were hardly acknowledged or noticed as serious writers. In the past four decades their works have been steadily rising in quantity and quality. Today these writers are seriously redefining images of womanhood, providing new visions and reshaping erstwhile distorted characterizations of African women in fiction. ERNEST EMENYONU is Professor of the Department of Africana Studies, University of Michigan, Flint, North America. Africa World Press, Nigeria. HEBN

New Directions in African Literature Ernest Emenyonu, Patricia Thornton Emenyonu, F. D. Imbuga, 2006 Contributors to this volume ask what are the new directions of African literature. What should be the major concerns of writers, critics, and teachers in the twenty-first century? What are the accomplishments and legacies? What gaps remain to be filled and what challenges are there to be addressed by publishers and the book industry? What are the implications for pedagogy in the new technological era? ERNEST EMENYONU is Professor of the Department of Africana Studies, University of Michigan, Flint, North America. Africa World Press, Nigeria. HEBN

Teaching African Literature Today Ernest Emenyonu, 2011 Focuses on theoretical and pedagogical approaches to the teaching of African literature on both sides of the Atlantic and beyond. The publication of Chinua Achebe's Things Fall Apart in 1958 drew universal attention not only to contemporary African creative imagination but also established the art of the modern African novel. In 1986 Wole Soyinka became the first African to win the Nobel Prize for Literature and opened the gate for other African writers. By the close of the 20th century African literature had gained world-wide acceptance and legitimacy in the academy and featured on the literature curriculum of schools and colleges across the globe. This special issue of African Literature Today examines the diverse experiences of teachers of African literature across regional, racial, cultural, and national boundaries. It explores such issues as student responses, productive pedagogical innovations, the impact of modern technology, case studies of online teaching, teaching criticism of African literature, and teaching African literature in an age of multiculturalism. It is intended as an invaluable teacher's handbook and essential student companion for the effective study of African literature.

Writing Africa in the Short Story Ernest Emenyonu, 2013 The success of the Caine Prize for African Writing and the growth of online publishing have played key roles in putting the short story in its rightful place within the study and criticism of African literature. African writers have much more than the critics recognized: the beauty and potency of the short story. Always the least studied in African literature classrooms and the most critically overlooked genre in African literature today, the African short story is now given the attention it deserves. Contributors here take a close look at the African short story to re-define its own peculiar pedigree, chart its trajectory, critique its present state, and examine its creative possibilities. They examine how the short story and the novel complement each other or exist in contradistinction within the context of culture and politics, history, and public memory, legends, myths, and folklore.
