

The Merseyside and Selnec metropolitan areas proposed by Redcliffe-Maud were wider than those eventually enacted in the 1972 Local Government Act

Selnec stood for "South East Lancashire and North East and Central Cheshire". The smaller county eventually established was Greater Manchester.

On this map, coloured shading and labels represent boundaries proposed by the Redcliffe-Maud report. The black outlines show the actual boundaries of 1974 counties.

Alternatives Proposals For Local Gover:

City-County Consolidation and Its Alternatives: Reshaping the Local Government Landscape J.B. Carr, Richard C. Feiock, 2016-07-08 City country consolidation builds upon the Progressive tradition of favoring structural reform of local governments This volume looks at some important issues confronting contemporary efforts to consolidate governments and develops a theoretical approach to understanding both the motivations for pursuing consolidation and the way the rules guiding the process shape the outcome Individual chapters consider the push for city county consolidation and the current context in which such decisions are debated along with several alternatives to city county consolidation The transaction costs of city county consolidation are compared against the costs of municipal annexation inter local agreements and the use of special district governments to achieve the desired consolidation of services The final chapters compare competing perspectives for and against consolidation and put together some of the pieces of an explanatory theory of local government consolidation
