AlterNatives Ranu Samantrai, 2002 This is the history of the black British women's movement of the 1980s comprising women of African Caribbean and South Asian origin and its place in postwar British politics racism and feminism Race, Ethnicity and the Women's Movement in England, 1968-1993 Natalie Thomlinson, 2016-04-08 This book is the first archive based account of the charged debates around race in the women's movement in England during the second wave period Examining both the white and the Black women's movement through a source base that includes original oral histories and extensive research using feminist periodicals this book seeks to unpack the historical roots of long running tensions between Black and white feminists It gives a broad overview of the activism that both Black and white women were involved in and examines the Black feminist critique of white feminists as racist how white feminists reacted to this critique and asks why the women's movement was so unable to engage with the concerns of Black women Through doing so the book speaks to many present day concerns within the women's movement about the politics of race and indeed the place of identity politics within the left more broadly Feminist Studies Hemangini Gupta, Kelly Sharron, Carly Thomsen, Abraham Weil, 2025-06-02 Feminist Studies An Introductory Reader offers a unique approach to teaching and learning feminist thought Crafted with the movement and translation of ideas in mind this book is broken into four sections Feminist Epistemologies Feminist Ontologies Feminist Orientations and Resistance Each chapter includes two well known classic texts that commonly appear in Feminist Studies classes as well as two new texts written by scholars who engage critique and extend those ideas in their work In addition the book is accompanied by a companion website which includes discussion questions assignment ideas lesson plans and other materials useful for classroom instruction Feminist Studies An Introductory Reader is designed for those new to feminism as well as more seasoned feminist thinkers It is an ideal resource for students in introductory and advanced feminist theory courses as well as those interested in social scientific and humanistic inquiry more broadly

Reconstructing Identity Nicholas Monk, Mia Lindgren, Sarah McDonald, Sarah Pasfield-Neofitou, 2017-07-31 This book examines the notion of identity through a multitude of interdisciplinary approaches It collects current thinking from international scholars spanning philosophy history science cultural studies media translation performance and marketing each with an outlook informed by their own subject and a mission to reflect on a theme that is greater than the sum of its parts This project was born out of a dynamic international and interdisciplinary pedagogical experience While by no means a teaching guide or textbook the authors experience of sharing the module with their students reinforced the fluidity and elusiveness of identity and its persistent facility to escape disciplinary classification Identity as a subject for analysis and discussion and as a lived reality for all of us has never been more complex and multi faceted Each chapter of this singular collection provides a lens through which the concept of identity can be viewed and as the book progresses it moves from ideas based in disciplinary contexts biology psychiatry philosophy to those developed in multi and inter disciplinary contexts

Innocent Subjects Terese Jonsson, 2020-12-20 In a time of intensified global white supremacist and patriarchal violence anti racist feminist movements and analyses have never been more vital Women of colour are at the forefront of these struggles worldwide but are white feminists really by their side Despite a rich history of Black and postcolonial critiques of racist and imperial feminist politics racism still exists within contemporary British feminism To explain why Terese Jonsson examines the history of feminism over the last forty years She argues that Black feminism s role in shaping the movement has been marginalised through narratives which repeatedly position white women at the centre of the story from the women s liberation movement in the 1970s to today Analysing the ways in which whiteness continues to pervade feminist literature as well as feminist debates in the liberal media Jonsson demonstrates that despite an increased attention to race intersectionality and difference stories told by white feminists are shaped by their desire to maintain an innocent position towards racism

Political Blackness in Multiracial Britain Mohan Ambikaipaker, 2018-07-06 One evening in 1980 a group of white friends drinking at the Duke of Edinburgh pub on East Ham High Street made a monstrous five pound wager The first person to kill a Paki would win the bet Ali Akhtar Baig a young Pakistani student who lived in the east London borough of Newham was their chosen victim Baig s murder was but one incident in a wave of antiblack racial attacks that were commonplace during the crisis of race relations in Britain in the 1970s and 1980s Ali Akhtar Baig s death also catalyzed the formation of a grassroots antiracist organization Newham Monitoring Project NMP that worked to transform the racist victimization of African Caribbean and South Asian communities into campaigns for racial justice and social change In addition to providing a 24 hour hotline and casework services NMP activists worked to mitigate the scourge of racial injustice that included daily racial harassment hate crimes and antiblack police violence Since the advent of the War on Terror NMP widened its approach to support victims of the state s counterterrorism policies which have contributed to an unfettered surge in Islamophobia These realities as well as the many layers of gendered racism in contemporary Britain come to life through intimate ethnographic storytelling The reader gets to know a broad range of east Londoners and antiracist activists whose intersecting experiences present a multifaceted portrait of British racism Mohan Ambikaipaker examines the life experiences of these individuals through a strong theoretical lens that combines critical race theory and postcolonial studies Political Blackness in Multiracial Britain shows how the deep processes of everyday political whiteness shape the state s failure to provide effective remedies for ethnic racial and religious minorities who continue to face violence and institutional racism

Against the Romance of Community Miranda Joseph, 2002 An unexpected and valuable critique of community that points out its complicity with capitalism Community is almost always invoked as an unequivocal good an indicator of a high quality of life caring selflessness belonging Into this common portrayal Against the Romance of Community introduces an uncommon note of caution a penetrating sorely needed sense of what precisely we are doing when we call upon this ideal Miranda Joseph explores sites where the ideal of community relentlessly recurs from debates over art and culture in the popular media to the discourses and practices of nonprofit and nongovernmental organizations to contemporary narratives of economic transformation or globalization She shows how community legitimates the social hierarchies of gender race nation and sexuality that capitalism implicitly requires Joseph argues that social formations including community are constituted through the performativity of production This strategy makes it possible to understand connections between identities and communities that would otherwise seem disconnected gay consumers in the United States and Mexican maquiladora workers Christian right family values and Asian crony capitalism Exposing the complicity of social practices identities and communities with capitalism this truly constructive critique opens the possibility of genuine alliances across such differences
