Brady, Derek C. Maus, 2010-02-17 Essays by Owen E. Brady Kelly C. Connelly Juan F. Elices Keith Hughes Derek C. Maus Jerrilyn McGregory Laura Quinn Francesca Canad Sautman Daniel Stein Lisa B. Thompson Terrence Tucker and Albert U. Turner Jr. In Finding a Way Home thirteen essays by scholars from four countries trace Walter Mosley's distinctive approach to representing African American responses to the feeling of homelessness in an inhospitable America. Mosley, by 1952, writes frequently of characters trying to construct an idea of home and wrest a sense of dignity belonging and hope from cultural and communal resources. These essays examine Mosley's queries about the meaning of home in various social and historical contexts. Essayists consider the concept whether it be material, social, cultural, or virtual in all three of Mosley's detective crime fiction series: Easy Rawlins, Socrates Fortlow, and Fearless Jones; his three books of speculative fiction; two of his literary novels, RL's Dream and The Man in My Basement; and in his recent social and political nonfiction. Essays here explore Mosley's modes of expression, his testing of the limitations of genre, his political engagement in prose, his utopian/dystopian analyses, and his uses of parody and vernacular culture. Finding a Way Home provides rich discussions explaining the development of Mosley's work. General Robert E. Lee: The True Story of the Infamous "Marble Man" John Esten Cooke, Robert E. Lee, 2017-08-26 This book reveals the incredible life of the legendary General, one of the most prominent figures of the Confederate Army in the American Civil War. It also contains his personal writings which paint a full picture of Lee's life. dominance by dominant and dominated the paradoxical impact of the missionary and the subversive role of some women It also considers the significant issues of colonial adaptation resistance and rejection and the post imperial consequences of imperialism

The Smell of Blood K. Stewart, 2009-05-29 It seems at least every generation the US has sent young men to war Although each one has its unique character they all take many young and less experienced men and now women and ask them to perform acts of violence only dimly hinted in movies and the media One thing all wars have in common is the government never prepares itself or their armed forces for the toll it takes on human beings and returning veterans nor does it consider the impact of homecoming and transition these soldiers are expected to make Token parades or superficial and transient expressions of appreciation can in no way make up for the price we pay Many returning veterans have found release in writing art family and public service Many have never found their way home and some never will These are just some of one man's thoughts and feelings about his experience Although war is always big business for those of us that fight it it is personal

Researching Race and Racism Martin Bulmer, John Solomos, 2004-07-31 Race and racism have become huge areas of study in the social sciences over the past two decades However whilst this has been reflected in the growing body of theoretical and empirically based work surprisingly little has been published that explores the methodological and practical issues involved in researching race In Researching Race and Racism Martin Bulmer and John Solomos have brought together contributions from some of the leading researchers in the field using the benefit of their experience to explore the practical and ethical issues involved in doing research in this sometimes controversial often heavily politicised field This book will provide students and researchers both new to the field and experienced alike with an invaluable tool to help them find their way

Africa and elsewhere      Searching for the New Black Man Ronda C. Henry Anthony, 2013-06-01 Using the slave narratives of Henry Bibb and Frederick Douglass as well as the work of W E B Du Bois James Baldwin Walter Mosley and Barack Obama Ronda C Henry Anthony examines how women's bodies are used in African American literature to fund the production of black masculine ideality and power In tracing representations of ideal black masculinities and femininities the author shows how black men's struggles for gendered agency are inextricably entwined with their complicated relation to white men and normative masculinity The historical context in which this study couches these struggles highlights the extent to which shifting socioeconomic circumstances dictate the ideological cultural and emotional terms upon which black men conceptualize identity Yet Anthony quickly moves to texts that challenge traditional constructions of black masculinity In these texts she traces how the emergence of collaboratively gendered discourses or a blending of black female male feminist consciousnesses are reshaping black masculinities femininities and intraracial relations for a new century      Britain into Europe Roger Jowell, Gerald Hoinville, 2025-09-12 Britain into Europe 1976 examines how the debate in Britain about EEC membership was conducted between 1961 and 1975 Using survey research data from Social and Community Planning Research it shows how public opinion on this critical issue developed over fifteen years Roger Jowell and Gerald Hoinville describe the background to the decision to apply James Spence traces the movements in public mood Barry Hedges looks at the final four years Dipak Nandy analyses the role of the media Martin Collins examines the vote itself Andrew Duff considers the constitutional implications of the referendum      Wings That Stay On Edward V. Coggins, 2000 From the Preface This book was required As a former professor of military history at the American Military University AMU and a retired USAF Colonel I wanted to teach a course on the effects of fighter aviation in war In addition I wanted to create a course that was a hands on approach to fighter aviation history Having flown USAF fighters for more than 20 years I felt I had a good working knowledge of fighter aviation but when I researched the subject I found I would have to ask my students to read scores of books to provide the background they would need There was no single source book that covered everything I wanted to cover I determined to write that book I wanted to write a straightforward book in plain language that would not bore fighter pilots and at the same time that would be simple enough to be attractive to laymen as well as air power historians That is what I have done I have covered some detailed thoughts about fighter flying in what Southern Americans might call biscuits and gravy language The overriding premise of the text is that the fighter has been the key element in the air power equation and continues in that role today although this role may be changing with the advent of good reliable beyond visual range air to air missiles This view has not been universally held over the years however it is a view that has been held by fighter pilots since the advent of the fighter More and more historians are beginning to support this view Table of Contents World War I Fighter Development Between Wars The Air Wars Between World Wars Fighter Development In World War II The Korean War The Fighter In The Vietnam War The Arab Israeli Wars The India Pakistani Conflicts The Air War In The Falklands Soviet
