Trial Designs and Outcomes in Dementia Therapeutic Research Kenneth Rockwood, Serge Gauthier, 2005-11-23 Given the increased attention of clinicians researchers and the pharmaceutical industry to the management and treatment of dementia not only in the elderly but also in increasingly younger populations the demands for effective evidence based pharmaceutical control of dementia and quantitative assessment of outcomes have increased From the first steps in the early 1960s to the controversial landmark paper of Summers and colleagues to the most recent trials it is clear both that much progress has been made and that much remains to be done This book is written to take stock of what is now usefully known and to speculate on directions for the future

Vision in Alzheimer's Disease A. Cronin-Golomb, P. R. Hof, Tamàs Fülöp, 2004-07 Visual dysfunction is prevalent in Alzheimer s disease and in related disorders such as posterior cortical atrophy and Down syndrome The neuropathology of these disorders affects brain areas that process low level vision as well as higher order cognition and attention This volume spans the range of topics on vision from structure retinal and cortical to function cortical activation to behavior perception cognition attention hallucinations and everyday activities The chapters together indicate that lower level visual deficits can contribute to or masquerade as higher order cognitive impairments As important they suggest that vision based interventions may improve patients lives An emerging theme is that the study of variations in visual system pathology behavior and genetic risk will likely provide insights into typical Alzheimer s disease as well as related conditions The visual disorders of Alzheimer s original case and its cousins of the 21st century have much to teach us about the changing visual system in aging and age related neurodegenerative disease This book is essential reading for neurologists neuropsychologists ophthalmologists and optometrists geriatricians and gerontologists psychiatrists occupational therapists and other health professionals who provide diagnosis and clinical care to individuals with Alzheimer s disease and related disorders Aging of the Brain and
