Alzheimer's Disease Health Watch:

Health Watch United States. Health Care Financing Administration, 1996-06 Alzheimer Disease: The Changing View Robert Katzman, Katherine Bick, 2000-05-22 This book details how Alzheimer Disease went from being an obscure neurologic diagnosis to a household word. The words of those responsible for this revolution are the heart of this book. Dr Robert Katzman and Dr Katherine Bick, leaders in Alzheimer research and policy making, interview the people responsible for this awakening of public consciousness about Alzheimer Disease from 1960 to 1980. They speak with the scientists, public health officials, government regulators, and concerned relatives and activists responsible for taking this neurodegenerative disease out of the back wards through the halls of Congress and on to the front page. The reader will learn how the explosive increase in research funding and public awareness came about, how physicians and psychiatrists established diagnostic criteria, how drugs were developed that offer hope for sufferers, and how the Alzheimer's Association was born. Written in the words of those responsible for the widespread recognition of this neurodegenerative disease, the authors are recognised as leaders in Alzheimer research and policy making. Alzheimer's Disease Susan Dudley Gold, 2000 Discusses this degenerative disease of the nervous system, its effect on the patient's family members, and suggestions for coping and care.

Menopause and Estrogen Ellen Hodgson Brown, Lynne Paige Walker, 1996 One of the most hard hitting menopause books in its critique of the way the medical establishment views and treats menopause, its purpose is two fold. Firstly, to tell the real story about hormone replacement therapy, its dangers, and why doctors are pushing it; and secondly, to offer alternative treatments based on looking at the body and aging from the point of view of health, not pathology. This is an incredibly important book for transforming the myths of aging and bringing women's healing back into the hands of women.

The Art and Science of Personalising Care with Older People with Diabetes Trisha Dunning, 2018-08-06 This unique book is intended for all health professionals caring for older people with diabetes, such as specialist and general nurses, doctors, primary care practitioners, and dietiticians. Although there is an increasing body of work about personalised care, no publications were identified that encompass the focus and scope of the proposed book. The global population is ageing, and increasing age is a key risk factor for diabetes. Older people with diabetes are often vulnerable, have complex care needs, and often have cognitive changes which makes personalising care challenging for health professionals. Thus, this is an internationally relevant book filling a gap in the current literature. This is a practical and updated book that will use an engaging and easy-to-read narrative style. It challenges readers to reflect in and on their practice. It encompasses people with diabetes and authors' stories which are known to have a special interest to readers, making it easier to apply the information to practice, enhance learning, and hence the relevance and value of the book. It is relevant to advocacy organisations as well as managers and service planners. Researchers and scientists may find relevant information on grant and ethics applications, research protocols, plain language statements for potential participants, and operationalising research protocols.
