only after Beethoven's death Beethoven's music was a catalyst for this change but only in retrospect for it was not until after his death that listeners began to hear composers in general and not just Beethoven in their works particularly in their instrumental music The Beethoven Syndrome Hearing Music as Autobiography traces the rise fall and persistence of this mode of listening from the middle of the eighteenth century to the present Prior to 1830 composers and audiences alike operated within a framework of rhetoric in which the burden of intelligibility lay squarely on the composer whose task it was to move listeners in a calculated way But through a confluence of musical philosophical social and economic changes the paradigm of expressive objectivity gave way to one of subjectivity in the years around 1830 The framework of rhetoric thus yielded to a framework of hermeneutics concert goers no longer perceived composers as orators but as oracles to be deciphered In the wake of World War I however the aesthetics of New Objectivity marked a return not only to certain stylistic features of eighteenth century music but to the earlier concept of expression itself Objectivity would go on to become the cornerstone of the high modernist aesthetic that dominated the century's middle decades Masterfully citing a broad array of source material from composers critics theorists and philosophers Mark Evan Bonds's engaging study reveals how perceptions of subjective expression have endured leading to the present era of mixed and often conflicting paradigms of listening
