

The book cover features a traditional marbled paper pattern in shades of brown, tan, and cream. The pattern consists of dense, swirling, and feathered lines that create a complex, organic texture. In the center of the cover is a rectangular label with a thin grey border. The text on the label is centered and reads: "BURTON RAFFEL" in a small, all-caps serif font; "ARTISTS ALL" in a large, bold, all-caps serif font; and "CREATIVITY, THE UNIVERSITY, AND THE WORLD" in a medium-sized, all-caps serif font, arranged in three lines.

Artists All Creativity The University And The World:

Artists All Burton Raffel, 1991 Basic human drives that the arts and aesthetic experiences frequently inspire insight in scientists and sociologists that the arts themselves though mutually untranslatable share a deep unity that disciplinary boundaries and divisions can frequently stunt creativity that and that there is always a link between what artists produce and their stance toward their society's place and posture in the world When used to define intellectual disciplines the very word Interdisciplinary is a misnomer almost a contradiction in terms Raffel contends because it implies boundaries rather than interconnectedness and interrelationships Since it is his own primary concern Raffel uses literature as a touchstone analyzing its relationships with social science natural science music and the visual arts He then provides practical recommendations addressed to the academic community as a whole about ways of restructuring universities to reflect functioning interdisciplinary realities rather than convenient but artificial and seriously constrictive disciplinary boundaries Written with humor and sensitivity Artists All makes a significant contribution to current thinking about higher education

Creativity and Beyond Robert Weiner, 2000-04-20 Explores how historical artistic and technological developments and cross cultural exchange have altered our conceptions of creativity

The Art of Translating Prose Burton Raffel, 1994-01-01 There has been very little linguistically sound discussion of the differences between poetry and prose and virtually no discussion of any sort of the practical consequences of those differences for the translation of prose The Art of Translating Prose presents for both the specialist and nonspecialist the core strategies employed by the author in translating a variety of important prose texts and in the process delineates a coherent program or theory that can inform each act of translation Burton Raffel considers and effectively illustrates the fundamental features of prose those features that most clearly and idiomatically define an author's style He addresses those features that must be attended closely and imaginatively as one moves them from the original language work Raffel's insistence on concentrating on the artistic viability of the translation continues themes he explored in other books most notably The Forked Tongue and The Art of Translating Poetry Raffel finds the most important determinant for prose though not for poetry to be syntax which he argues must be tracked if the translation is to reflect the original author's style in a meaningful way Raffel ties together theory and practice to establish sound standards for the evaluation of prose translations and he provides examples in considerations of versions of such books as Madame Bovary Germinal and Death in Venice
