Raptors of New Mexico Jean-Luc E. Cartron, 2010-08-16 No book has ever before specifically focused on the birds of prey of New Mexico Both Florence Bailey 1928 and J Stokley Ligon 1961 published volumes on the birds of New Mexico but their coverage of raptors was somewhat limited In the ensuing years a great deal of new information has been collected on these mighty hunters distribution ecology and conservation including in New Mexico The book begins with a history of the word raptor The order of Raptatores or Raptores was first used to classify birds of prey in the early nineteenth century derived from the Latin word raptor one who seizes by force The text then includes the writings of thirty seven contributing authors who relate their observations on these regal species For example Joe Truett recounts the following in the chapter on the Swainson s Hawk From spring to fall each year at the Jornada Caves in the Jornada del Muerto Swainson s hawks assemble daily to catch bats The bats exit the caves actually lava tubes near sundown The hawks swoop in snatch bats from the air and eat them on the wing Originally from France Jean Luc Cartron has lived and worked on several continents finding his passion in the wide open spaces of New Mexico He became fascinated by the birds of prey and has studied their ecology and conservation for nearly twenty years Raptors of New Mexico will provide readers with a comprehensive treatment of all hawks eagles kites vultures falcons and owls breeding or wintering in New Mexico or simply migrating through the state This landmark study is also beautifully illustrated with more than six hundred photographs including the work of more than one hundred photographers and more than twenty species distribution maps

Ecological Effects of Prescribed Fire Season Eric E. Knapp,2010-10 Historical and prescribed fire regimes for different regions in the continental U S were compared and literature on season of prescribed burning synthesized In regions and vegetation types where considerable differences in fuel consumption exist among burning seasons the effects of prescribed fire season appears to be driven more by fire intensity differences among seasons than by phenology or growth stage of organisms at the time of fire Where fuel consumption differs little among burning seasons the effect of phenology or growth stage of organisms is often more apparent because it is not overwhelmed by fire intensity differences Species in ecosystems that evolved with fire appear to be resilient to one or few out of season prescribed burns Illus What's Love Got to Do with it:
