The Institutional Basis of Higher Education Research Stefanie Schwarz, Ulrich Teichler, 2007-05-08 In the US the university administration runs its own office of institutional research in order to base its decisions on systematic information Furthermore higher education research can rely on a relatively stable academic basis if study programmes on higher education exist Again this is most frequently the case in the United States Finally governments and other macro societal actors sometimes have their own offices or institutes of policy research and prepare the policies of the actors they report to In addition research on higher education can be institutionalized in a variety of ways Often research institutes on higher education are quite visible They were established as specialized research units within or outside institutions of higher education but no common institutional basis can be observed for this type of institution across the countries Third the major themes of research on higher education also differ between countries It has frequently been said that in European countries it was more prone to analyse macro societal issues of higher education whereas in the US it tended to study the inner life of higher education institutions students and the teaching and learning processes

Levin, Marie C. Martin, Ariadna I.
