Phil Dixon's American Baseball Chronicles Great Teams: the 1931 Homestead Grays, Volume I Phil S. Dixon, 2009-10-31

The Greatest Baseball team of all time easily describes the 1931 Homestead Grays. They remain a team never to be forgotten, a team that rates with the greatest teams in all of baseball history. Organized in 1910, the Homestead Grays of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, an exclusively African American team, held claim to a regional championship and also a legitimate claim to baseball's World Championship. The Grays' well-known leader was Hall of Famer Cumberland Posey. His 1931 Grays featured, among others, Hall of Fame third baseman Jud Wilson, Hall of Fame infielder Oscar Charleston, a Hall of Fame catcher in Josh Gibson, and two Hall of Fame pitchers in Willie Foster and Joseph "Smoky" Joe Williams, a total of five legendary players. Paced by young Josh Gibson, age 18, and the most powerful home run hitter in baseball, Posey's 1931 Homestead Grays finished with a magnificent 143-29-2 record. This is their story told here for the first time. Included within the text are written accounts for every game from the Homestead Grays' entire 1931 schedule of nearly 175 contests, with scores, attendance figures, and player biographies. The work includes scores and locations on more than 300 additional games played by the Kansas City Monarchs, Hilldale, Baltimore's Black Sox, the Cuban House of David, New York's Harlem Stars, and other African American teams in operation during that same 1931 season. The comparative scores and their related histories are a resourceful and entertaining aid for further analysis and assessment on the participation of African American athletes in baseball as best represented from the perspective of a single championship season.

Metaracism Tricia Rose, 2024-03-05. The definitive book on how systemic racism in America really works, revealing the vast and often hidden network of interconnected policies, practices, and beliefs that combine to devastate Black lives. In recent years, condemnations of racism in America have echoed from the streets to corporate boardrooms. At the same time, politicians and commentators fiercely debate racism's very existence. And so our conversations about racial inequalities remain muddled. In Metaracism, pioneering scholar Tricia Rose cuts through the noise with a bracing and invaluable new account of what systemic racism actually is, how it works, and how we can fight back. She reveals how, from housing to education to criminal justice, an array of policies and practices connect and interact to produce an even more devastating metaracism, far worse than the sum of its parts. While these systemic connections can be difficult to see and are often portrayed as color-blind, again and again they function to disproportionately contain, exploit, and punish Black people. By helping us to comprehend systemic racism's inner workings and destructive impacts, Metaracism shows us also how to break free and how to create a more just America for us all.

Lynching and Mob Violence in Ohio, 1772-1938 David Meyers, Elise Meyers Walker, 2018-12-11. In the late 19th century, Ohio was reeling from a wave of lynchings and other acts of racially motivated mob violence. Many of these acts were attributed to well-known and respected men and women, yet few of them were ever prosecuted; some were even lauded for taking the law into their own hands. In 1892, Ohio-born Benjamin Harrison was the first U.S. President to call for anti-lynching legislation. Four years later, his home state responded with the Smith Act for the Suppression of Mob Violence. One of the most severe anti-lynching laws in the country, it was a major step forward, though it did little to address the underlying causes.

of racial intolerance and distrust of law enforcement. Chronicling hundreds of acts of mob violence in Ohio, this book explores the acts themselves, their motivations, and the law's response to them.
