The Malaspina Expedition 1789-1794 / ... / Volume II / Panama to the Philippines Andrew David,Felipe Fernández-Armesto,Glyndwr Williams,2018-12-07 Among the voyages of exploration and surveying in the late 18th century that of Alejandro Malaspina best represents the high ideals and scientific interests of the Enlightenment Italian born Malaspina entered the Spanish navy in 1774 In September 1788 he and fellow officer Jos Bustamante submitted a plan to the Ministry of Marine for a voyage of survey and inspection to Spanish territories in the Americas and Philippines The expedition was to produce hydrographic charts for the use of Spanish merchantmen and warships and to report on the political economic and defensive state of Spain's overseas possessions. The plan was approved and in July 1789 Malaspina and Bustamante sailed from Cadiz in the purpose built corvettes Descubierta and Atrevida. On board the vessels were scientists and artists and an array of the latest surveying and astronomical instruments. The voyage lasted more than five years. On his return Malaspina was promoted Brigadier de la Real Armada and began work on an account of the voyage in seven volumes to dwarf the narratives of his predecessors in the Pacific such as Cook and Bougainville. Among much else it would contain sweeping recommendations for reform in the governance of Spain's overseas empire. But Malaspina became involved in political intrigue. In November 1795 he was arrested, stripped of his rank and sentenced to life imprisonment. Although released in 1803 Malaspina spent the last seven years of his life in obscure retirement in Italy. He never resumed work on the great edition and his journal was not published in Spain until 1885. Only in recent years has a multi volume edition appeared under the auspices of the Museo Naval Madrid that does justice to the achievements of what for long was a forgotten voyage. This second volume in a series of three contains Malaspina's diario or journal for the first time in English translation and with commentary. It covers the period from 15 December 1790 to 15 November 1792 when he visited the Pacific coasts of Central and North America as far north as Alaska before crossing the ocean to the Philippines. Other texts include the apocryphal voyage of Ferrer Maldonado through the Strait of Anian which led to a major diversion of the Malaspina expedition in 1791.

Philippine Studies, 2007 Atlantic History Jack P. Greene, Philip D. Morgan, 2008-12-31 Atlantic history with its emphasis on inter regional developments that transcend national borders has risen to prominence as a fruitful perspective through which to study the interconnections among Europe North America Latin America and Africa. These original essays present a comprehensive and incisive look at how Atlantic history has been interpreted across time and through a variety of lenses from the fifteenth through the early nineteenth century. Editors Jack P. Greene and Philip D. Morgan have assembled a stellar cast of thirteen international scholars to discuss key areas of Atlantic history including the British Spanish Portuguese Dutch French African and indigenous worlds as well as the movement of ideas peoples and goods. Other contributors assess contemporary understandings of the ocean and present alternatives to the concept itself juxtaposing Atlantic history with global hemispheric and Continental history.

Manila Men in the New World Floro L. Mercene, 2007 The Filipino diaspora is at least four hundred years old. For two and a half centuries Filipinos by the hundreds traveled yearly to Mexico and the Americas with many electing to stay and find a new life. The chief means for migration was the Manila galleon that sailed between the Philippines and Mexico to carry on a lively trade in Asian goods in exchange for silver from the Americas and the trappings of civilization from the West. The end of the galleon trade in 1815 did not stop the exodus of Filipinos to foreign lands as they began to discover the lure of other exotic ports in Asia and Europe. This book attempts to answer the question often asked: What happened to those Filipinos who started the diaspora? The answers are important because they fill a gap in the long history of this adventurous race.

and migrants coming from the Italian peninsula These primary sources include unpublished travel diaries compiled by the first Victorian women visitors to the Bel Paese which have been largely neglected by scholarship thus far This examination pinpoints the enduring significance of Italy in travel related terms showing how this destination was adapted from the map of eighteenth century British Grand Tourists to that of nineteenth century Australian holiday makers Most critically Questions of Authority argues Italian Australian peripatetic connections entail issues of authority that emerge in the ways in which Italian and Australian travel writers displayed their authorship cultural capital and national identification in relation to the other country Finally it demonstrates how these are highly regulated by and yet simultaneously challenge British colonial hegemony
