Alain Prost: The Art of Speed Fabricio Sales Silva, 2025-02-27 If I could share a single message with you it would be this no matter how many curves life throws your way there's always a way to adjust direction and find our own perfect course When I was a kid growing up in Saint Chamond I never imagined that one day I would be in Formula 1 driving the fastest cars in the world and competing against the best I was just a kid with a bike and that bike was my first lesson in balance determination and passion I believe that life like motorsport is a matter of strategy You don't win by running without thinking You win by understanding the right moment to accelerate the moment to brake and above all the moment to stand firm even when it seems that the curve is tighter than you can bear I always preferred to be called The Teacher because my success was never based solely on speed but on how I used my mind to see the big picture to anticipate the next step before it arrived Life is made of curves and straights of victories and defeats of ups and downs But at every turn there is an opportunity to adjust to surpass yourself and to get closer to what you want to achieve So adjust your steering wheel look ahead and accelerate The path is yours and the race is still ongoing
