Aleksis Kivi Odes:

Odes Aleksis Kivi, 1994 Aleksis Kivi 1834-72 is the Finnish writer best loved by his countrymen His novel Seven Brothers the first Finnish novel has been widely translated as has his comedy The Country Cobblers and his tragedy Kullervo developed from a Kalevala story is the basis of Aulis Sallinen's opera of the same name This is the first selection in English of Kivi's poems They combine Romantic themes the natural world as paradise the primacy of a child's vision with a sturdy realism that vividly describes a bear hunt a gipsy family hilariously plying its trades a peasant as mute as the oxen he loves Meanwhile the technique used in most of the poems with their elaborate unrhymed stanzas echoes Classical antiquity which is why the translator has chosen to call this book Odes Aleksis Kivi and/as World Literature Douglas Robinson, 2017-03-06 Aleksis Kivi 1834-1872 is Finland's greatest writer His great 1870 novel The Brothers Seven has been translated 59 times into 34 languages Is he world literature or not In Aleksis Kivi and/as World Literature Douglas Robinson uses this question as a wedge for exploring the nature and nurture of world literature and the contributions made by translators to it Drawing on Deleuze and Guattari's notion of major and minor literature Robinson argues that translators have mainly majoritized Kivi translated him respectfully and so created images of literary tourism that ill suit recognition as world literature Far better he insists is the impulse to minoritize to find and celebrate the minor writer in Kivi who sends the major language racing be labelled as a manifestation of Northerners yearning for the Southern sun The corpus of critical literature which deals with Italy in Nordic literatures is very wide but also fragmentary While many scholars have written about this topic and chiefly on the relations between individual Scandinavian literatures or well known authors such as Henrik Ibsen Selma Lagerl f and Hans Christian Andersen and Italy few have emphasised their variety plurality and complexity With its comparative approach this study casts a new light on a selection of nineteenth and twentieth century representations of Italy and presents some of these Nordic Italies Taking into account texts of different genres poetry drama and novel and focusing on theories of representation genre and space this book examines complex and heterogeneous literary representations that cannot be reduced to a single stereotype In these texts Italy emerges both as a set of physical spaces and as a series of metaphorical concepts How are these Italian spaces and identities constructed and what do they stand for What forms does the broad concept of Italianness take in these literary works How are the Italian settings and characters as well as the aspects of Italian politics history society culture and folklore that populate so many literary texts shaped and combined Is there a relationship between specific literary genres and the way in which Italy is represented These are only some of the questions addressed by this study which demonstrates how Nordic representations of Italy express much more than unanimous praise for the sun idyllic landscapes ruins and mandolin players

Translating the Monster Douglas Robinson, 2022-10-24 One of the hottest battles emerging out of the theoretical and methodological collisions between Comparative Literature and Translation Studies especially on the battleground of World Literature has to do with translatability and untranslatability Is any translation of a great work of literature not only a lamentable betrayal but an impossibility Or is translation an imperfect but invaluable tool for the transmission of works and ideas beyond language barriers Both views are defensible indeed both are arguably commonsensical What Douglas Robinson argues in Translating the Monster however is that both are gross oversimplifications of a complex situation that he calls on Jacques Derrida to characterize as the monster The Finnish novelist Robinson takes as his case study for that monstrous rethinking is Volter Kilpi 1874 1939 regarded by scholars of Finnish literature as Finland s second world class writer the first being Aleksis Kivi 1834 1872 Kilpi s modernist experiments of the 1930s especially his so called Archipelago series beginning with his masterpiece In the Alastalo Parlor 1933 were forgotten and neglected for a half century due to the extreme difficulty of his narrative style he reinvents the Finnish language to the extent that many Finns say it is like reading a foreign language and one contemporary critic called it the Mesopotamian language of a half wit That novel has been translated exactly twice into Swedish and German Translating the Monster also gives the English speaking reader an extended taste of the novel in English en route to a series of reframings of the novel as allegories of translation and world literature

Studies in Expansive Learning Yrjö Engeström,2016-08-04 A conceptual and practical toolkit for creating learning processes with the help of interventions in workplaces schools and communities Minna Canth Alisa Manninen,2025-03-13 Born into a working class family in nineteenth century Finland Minna Canth became a trailblazer as the country s first woman playwright she shocked audiences with her daring and won them over with her skill At the same time she ran a business that made her one of the most successful merchants in her city and raised her seven children Canth discovered in her middle age that she could begin a professional career in more than one field and change her society too As a social realist who wrote in Finnish and championed the rights of women and workers Canth was at the heart of an era of national awakening that prepared Finland for independence from Russia A woman who did not hesitate to challenge authority and expose injustice she had both admirers and enemies This biography by Alisa Manninen the translator of Canth s plays The Workman s Wife and Anna Liisa explores how she became a national icon in her own lifetime by being unafraid to be political Translation, Pornography, Performativity Douglas Robinson,Xiaorui Sun,2025-04-11 Robinson and Sun s book goes in search of the neglected metaphors of translation in pornography using poststructuralist rethinkings and reframings of porn and masturbation from Jacques Derrida to Judith Butler In his 1684 Essay on Translated Verse the Earl of Roscommon attacked want of decency in translation metaphorically by comparing it to picking up prostitutes in the park raking the park for stews instead of hanging out with troops of faultless nymphs Sex work and the graphic representation of sex work that Nathaniel Butler was the first to call pornography in print in 1638 is used as a metaphor for non normative translation which in Robinson and Sun s hands becomes experimental translation En route to that goal the authors take us through Butler on performativity and resistance Derrida on supplementarity and iterability and Haun Saussy s innovative application of Derridean citationality to the use of a target cultural sponsor or bondsman for translation They take detours through Charles Baudelaire s Une charogne and J G Ballard s The Drowned Giant They deal with the performativity of pornography and translato-graphy in Part I the unnatural iterability of masturbation and translation in Part II and experimental translation in Part III The theory littered path this book takes through the metaphors of translation will be of interest to scholars and students of translation studies especially experimental translation and translation theory but also media scholars interested in the philosophical complexities of performativity

Focus on Psychotherapy Research M. E. Abelian, 2005 Psychotherapy is the treatment of mental and emotional disorders using psychological methods Psychotherapy thus does not include physiological interventions such as drug therapy or electroconvulsive therapy although it may be used in combination with such methods Behaviour therapy aims to help the patient eliminate undesirable habits or irrational fears through conditioning Techniques include systematic desensitisation particularly for the treatment of clients with irrational anxieties or fears and aversive conditioning which uses negative stimuli to end bad habits Humanistic therapy tends to be more optimistic basing its treatment on the theory that individuals have a natural inclination to strive toward self fulfilment Therapists such as Carl Rogers and Abraham Maslow used a highly interactive client therapist relationship compelling clients to realise exactly what they are saying or how they are behaving in order to foster a sense of self awareness Cognitive therapies try to show the client that certain usually negative thoughts are irrational with the goal of restructuring such thoughts into positive constructive ideas Such methods include rational emotive therapy where the therapist argues with the client about his negative ideas and cognitive restructuring therapy in which the therapist works with the client to set attainable goals Other forms of therapy stress helping patients to examine their own ideas about themselves

Global Echoes Sarah Willards, In the farthest reaches of the world beyond the more frequently told tales of famine lie stories equally devastating and often forgotten This five in one volume brings together a powerful collection of global famines that unfolded across remote or politically complex regions illustrating the chilling universality of hunger throughout history Through gripping narratives and careful research each section explores how environmental extremes political instability and systemic failure contributed to mass human suffering The opening account Famine and Fear sets the tone by exploring how the fear of famine shaped policy migration and daily life in vulnerable regions The Hidden Holocaust delves into the lesser known but devastating famines that never made international headlines revealing the silent suffering endured by millions The third section turns to the 19th Century Famines in Finland where harsh winters and poor harvests devastated rural communities already living on the edge The fourth chapter covers the Great Russian Famine of 1601 1603 a cataclysm triggered by the eruption of a volcano halfway across the world plunging Russia into crop failure social breakdown and starvation The final section examines the Russian Famine of 1921 1922 a post revolutionary crisis where political chaos and drought led to widespread death and suffering amid the birth of the Soviet state Together these accounts uncover the global footprint of famine wherever it strikes the story is one of resilience tragedy and lessons yet to be fully learned
