Harbison, 2016-12-23 The mistreatment of older people is categorized in many societies as elder abuse and neglect yet the concept has not been subjected to rigorous critical inquiry Instead it has most often represented the interests of professionals academics and governments while policy makers and researchers frequently overlook or disregard the complexity of issues that fall under this designation Contesting Elder Abuse and Neglect questions existing understandings about the mistreatment of older people It explores how and why the designation elder abuse and neglect came to be and shows how this term masks problems concerning the mistreatment of older people their place in society and how they see themselves Joan R Harbison and her colleagues expose how supposed solutions to the problem of abuse can take their toll on those people they were originally intended to protect The book is an important contribution to the literature that encourages new thinking about issues concerning the mistreatment of older people Crime Fiction and National Identities in the Global Age Julie H. Kim, 2020-05-05 To read a crime novel today largely simulates the exercise of reading newspapers or watching the news The speed and frequency with which today's bestselling works of crime fiction are produced allow them to mirror and dissect nearly contemporaneous socio political events and conflicts This collection examines this phenomenon and offers original critical essays on how national identity appears in international crime fiction in the age of populism and globalization These essays address topics such as the array of competing nationalisms in Europe Indian secularism versus Hindu communalism the populist rhetoric tinged with misogyny or homophobia in the United States racial religious or ethnic others who are sidelined in political appeals to dominant native voices and the increasing economic chasm between a rich and poor More broadly these essays inquire into themes such as how national identity and various conceptions of masculinity are woven together how dominant native cultures interact with migrant and colonized cultures to explore insider outsider paradigms and identity politics and how generic and cultural boundaries are repeatedly crossed in postcolonial detective fiction
