Zarit,1980 From Simon Schuster Aging and Mental Disorders should help dispel some of the all too common myths and misconceptions about the elderly Widely acclaimed and enthusiastically reviewed Aging and Mental Disorders gives professionals the knowledge and insights they need to meet the challenge of working with the aged

Mental Health Among Elderly Native Americans (Psychology Revivals) James L. Narduzzi,2015-03-27 In the 1990s providing mental health services to the elderly and particularly to elderly Native Americans had been an issue of some concern for the last several decades Despite this many public decisions made at the time were based on inadequate data Due to this lack of data there had been little research devoted to determining the factors associated with mental health among elderly Native Americans Instead the growing body of mental health research had been based on limited samples primarily of middle majority Anglos Originally published in 1994 the purpose of this research was to utilize existing data to close the gap in our understanding of mental health among elderly Native Americans Research on the Mental Health of the Aging, 1960-1976 Center for Studies of the Mental Health of the Aging (U.S.),Marie L. Blank,1977 187 entries to research published or not published conducted over the past 16 years Intended for gerontologists and other interested professionals or lay persons Classified order Entry gives title investigator organization address completion date of research abstract and any publication information of study and results Investigator subject indexes Mental Health in the Elderly H. Häfner,G. Moschel,N. Sartorius,2012-12-06 H Hafner G Moschel N Sartorius The size of the world s population aged over 65 was estimated at about 250 million in 1980 by the year 2025 it is expected to grow to about 760 million see Hauser this volume This sharp increase in life expectancy at birth in some countries amounting to almost 100% in only a hundred years has resulted from better nutrition and improved living conditions hygiene and medical care Not only life expectancy at birth but also further life expectancy in advanced age has shown a clear though more moderate increase This increased life expectancy together with a simultaneous fall in birth rates has caused the mean age of the world population and especially the average age of the population of industrial nations to climb substantially in recent times a development which will reach its peak only some decades from now For these demographic reasons alone health care authorities will have to devote more attention to the health problems of the elderly The main task of medical research is to develop improved methods of disease prevention and treatment Yet because the full benefits of such research are only realized after many years of work researchers have already begun to respond to demographic pressures by focussing part of their efforts on the study of illnesses characteristic of old age NIMH Research on the Mental Health of the Aging Marie L.
