Agricultural Mechanization Policy And Strategy The Case Of Thailand:

Agricultural Mechanization Policy and Strategy Adrian G. Rijk, 1989 First the applicability of MECHMOD is discussed

An evolving paradigm of agricultural mechanization development: How much can Africa learn from Asia? Diao, Xinshen, ed., Takeshima, Hiroyuki. ed., Zhang, Xiaobo, ed., 2020-12-07 Agricultural mechanization in Africa south of the Sahara especially for small farms and businesses requires a new paradigm to meet the needs of the continent's evolving farming systems Can Asia with its recent success in adopting mechanization offer a model for Africa An Evolving Paradigm of Agricultural Mechanization Development analyzes the experiences of eight Asian and five African countries The authors explore crucial government roles in boosting and supporting mechanization from import policies to promotion policies to public good policies Potential approaches presented to facilitating mechanization in Africa include prioritizing market led hiring services eliminating distortions and developing appropriate technologies for the African context The role of agricultural mechanization within overall agricultural and rural transformation strategies in Africa is also discussed The book's recommendations and insights should be useful to national policymakers and the development community who can adapt this knowledge to local contexts and use it as a foundation for further research

Sustainable Agricultural Mechanization: A Framework for Africa Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, African Union, 2019-03-13 This framework presents ten interrelated principles elements to guide Sustainable Agricultural Mechanization in Africa SAMA Further it presents the technical issues to be considered under SAMA and the options to be analysed at the country and sub regional levels The ten key elements required in a framework for SAMA are as follows The analysis in the framework calls for a specific approach involving learning from other parts of the world where significant transformation of the agricultural mechanization sector has already occurred within a three to four decade time frame and developing policies and programmes to realize Africa's aspirations of Zero Hunger by 2025 This approach entails the identification and prioritization of relevant and interrelated elements to help countries develop strategies and practical development plans that create synergies in line with their agricultural transformation plans Given the unique characteristics of each country and the diverse needs of Africa due to the ecological heterogeneity and the wide range of farm sizes the framework avoids being prescriptive

Agricultural mechanization and gendered labor activities across sectors: Micro-evidence from multi-country farm household data Takeshima, Hiroyuki, Diao, Xinshen, 2021-12-07 Gender differences in the engagement of work activities across sectors are important elements of gender inequality in rural livelihoods and welfare in developing countries The role of production technologies including agricultural mechanization in addressing gender inequality is increasingly explored Knowledge gaps remain however including how agricultural mechanization differentially affect labor engagements across sectors This study aims to partly fill these knowledge gaps through micro evidence from 8 countries Ethiopia Ghana Nigeria Tanzania India Nepal Tajikistan and Vietnam using several nationally representative panel data and supplementary data and applying Correlated Random Effects Double Hurdle models with Instrumental Variables We find that the use of tractors and or combine harvesters by the household induces greater shift from farm activities to non farm activities by female members than by male members While statistical significance varies these patterns generally hold consistently across all 8 countries studied These patterns also seem to hold across different farm sizes While these are short term relations agricultural mechanization proxied by tractor and or combine harvesters is one of the important contributors to gendered rural livelihood Future studies should more closely investigate underlying mechanisms and implications of these patterns
