Agricultural Extension And Rural Development Breaking Out Of Traditions:

Agricultural Extension and Rural Development R. L. Ison, David Russell, 2000 This 1999 book proposes an alternative approach to research and development based on the needs of the farming community Agricultural Extension and Rural Development: Breaking Out of Traditions A Second-order Systems Perspective R. (Eds) Ison, D. B. Russell, 2000 Agricultural Extension and Rural Development Ray Ison, Raymond L. Ison, David Russell, 2007-08-16 This 1999 book proposes an alternative approach to research and development based on the needs of the farming community Social Learning in Environmental Management Rob Dyball, Meg Keen, 2012-04-27 Social Learning in Environmental Management explores and expands the approaches to collective learning most needed to help individuals communities experts and governments work together to achieve greater social and ecological sustainability It provides practical frameworks and case studies to assist environmental managers in building partnerships that can support learning and action on issues arising from human impacts on the life support systems of our planet In this book social learning frameworks and case studies address the three areas of collaboration community government and professional in some detail The resulting guidelines and their practical applications provide key source material for undergraduate and postgraduate professional education in the fields of social and environmental sciences political science planning geography and urban studies and also for professionals in environmental management Social Learning Systems and Communities of Practice Chris Blackmore, 2010-06-01 Social Learning Systems and Communities of Practice is a collection of classical and contemporary writing associated with learning and systemic change in contexts ranging from cities to rural development to education to nursing to water management to public policy It is likely to be of interest to anyone trying to understand how to think systemically and to act and interact effectively in situations experienced as complex messy and changing While mainly concerned with professional praxis where theory and practice inform each other there is much here that can apply at a personal level This book offers conceptual tools and suggestions for new ways of being and acting in the world in relation to each other that arise from both old and new understandings of communities learning and systems Starting with twentieth century insights into social learning learning systems and appreciative systems from Donald Schön and Sir Geoffrey Vickers the book goes on to consider the contemporary traditions of critical social learning systems and communities of practice pioneered by Richard Bawden and Etienne Wenger and their colleagues A synthesis of the ideas raised written by the editor concludes this reader The theory and practice of social learning systems and communities of practice appear to have much to offer in influencing and managing systemic change for a better world Modelling Value Herbert Jodlbauer, Jan Olhager, Richard J. Schonberger, 2012-01-05 The publication contains a selection of the best double blind reviewed papers presented discussed and revised by participants of the 1st International Conference on Value Chain Management in Austria Steyr May 2011 The Value Chain Management VCM Conference presents scientific insights relevant to management as well as their translation into the practice of management

The conference focus is on the demand chain i.e. sales production purchasing logistics performance measurement and customer value management. The authors present analytical and conceptual articles as well as empirical studies showing multidisciplinary and intercultural approaches towards solving relevant open problems.

Handbook of Sustainable Weed Management Harinder P. Singh, Daizy Rani Batish, Ravinder Kumar Kohli, 2006-03-30 Innovative Strategies for Managing Weeds in an Environmentally Protective Manner Successfully meeting the challenge of providing weed control without relying on dangerous chemicals that endanger the ecosystem or human lives this compendium focuses on management strategies that reduce herbicidal usage restore ecological balance and increase Environmental Education and Advocacy Edward A. Johnson, Michael J. Mappin, 2005-03-03 Environmental education has often blurred the distinction between ecological science and environmental advocacy. Growing public awareness of environmental problems and desire for action may be contributing to this blurring. There is a need to clarify the distinction between the role of ecological science and the role of social and political values for the environment within environmental education. This book addresses this need by examining the changing perspectives of ecology in education and the changing perspectives of education in environmental education. Guidelines are provided for assessing the science and education perspectives within environmental education along with suggested frameworks for development of programs and resources that integrate current science education and action. This book will be of interest to environmental educators, ecologists interested in environmental education and curriculum and resource developers.

Forest Community Connections Ellen Donoghue, Victoria Sturtevant, 2010-09-30 The connections between communities and forests are complex and evolving, presenting challenges to forest managers, researchers, and communities themselves. Dependency on timber extraction and timber-related industries is no longer a universal characteristic of the forest community. Remoteness is also a less common feature as technology, workforce mobility, tourism, and amenity migrants increasingly connect rural to urban places. Forest Community Connections explores the responses of forest communities to a changing economy, changing federal policy, and concerns about forest health from both within and outside forest communities. Focusing primarily on the United States, the book examines the ways that social scientists work with communities, their role in facilitating social learning, informing policy decisions, and contributing to community well-being. Bringing perspectives from sociology, anthropology, political science, and forestry, the authors review a range of management issues including wildfire risk, forest restoration, labor force capacity, and the growing demand for a growing variety of forest goods and services. They examine the increasingly diverse aesthetic and cultural values that forest residents attribute to forests, the factors that contribute to strong and resilient connections between communities and forests, and consider a range of governance structures to positively influence the well-being of forest communities and forests, including collaboration and community-based forestry.

The Human Capacity for Transformational Change Valerie A. Brown, John A. Harris, 2014-02-24 Pressures for transformational change have become a regular feature of most fields of human endeavour Master thinkers and visionaries alike have reframed existing divisions as connecting relationships bringing together as dynamic systems the supposed opposites of parts and wholes stability and change individuals and society and rational and creative thinking This reframing of opposites as interconnected wholes has led to realisation of the power of a collective mind This book offers ways and means of creating the synergies that are crucial in influencing a desired transformational change towards a just and sustainable future It describes how and why our current decision making on any complex issue is marked by clashes between the different interests involved More optimistically the book pursues a mode of thinking that brings together government specialised and community interests at the local regional and personal scales in a collective transformation process Practical examples signal the emergence of a new knowledge tradition that promises to be as powerful as the scientific enlightenment Written in accessible language this book will be insightful reading for anyone struggling with transformational change especially researchers students and professionals in the fields of administration governance environmental management international development politics public health public law sociology and community development

The Minnesota Response George Wilson Morse, George W. Morse, 2009 About the Book The Minnesota Response explains how Minnesota Extension responded to its mission and money crisis in 2004 with a sweeping restructuring Breaking with 95 years of tradition Minnesota Extension shifted from a county delivery model to a regional county model Regionalization however is the tip of the iceberg Several other policies define Minnesota's new approach including changes in funding sources degree of specialization of the regional educators more statewide program teams development of business plans and public value statements supervision of field educators by program specialists rather than geographic supervisors new scholarship and promotion expectations and new evaluation efforts The Minnesota Response describes these policies and reports on their initial impacts on program quality scholarship access and public support As land grant universities seek to rebuild programs based on best practices this book contributes valuable experience based insights into the choices available as Extension programs continue to evolve and respond Michael V Martin Chancellor of Louisiana State University

Cornucopia Limited Richard Coyne, 2007-09-28 Using the liminality of design its uneasy position between creativity and commerce to explore the network economy The network economy presents itself in the transactions of electronic commerce finance business and communications The network economy is also a social condition of discontinuity indefinite limits and in between spaces In Cornucopia Limited Richard Coyne uses the liminality of design its uneasy position between creativity and commerce to explore the network economy He argues that design with its open ended and transgressive explorations provides a new way to think about the world of commerce design's inter territorial precinct its in between condition offers a way to frame the problems of the Internet economy for profit vs for free private vs public security vs open access defense vs permeability Design says Coyne has a natural affinity with the edge condition and the position between polar opposites Edgy design starts with an idea brings to mind its opposite and then works with what emerges from the friction between the two The designer of a Web portal for example might take on the problem of security by focusing on the limits of permeability Design is edgy and risky argues Coyne in the same way that breaches in network security are risky In Cornucopia Limited he examines the threshold between conditions exemplified by the boundary between design and commerce Coyne uses five metaphors of design to develop his argument the household in economics historically opposed to the market with its relationship to the street mediated by various portals the machine rampant and glitchy the game competitive but simulated the gift precursor to commerce and the threshold The threshold condition Coyne says is the site of edgy design and a portal into the new The threshold he argues provides the most potent metaphor for understanding the liminal dwellers of the network economy Interpretation in Architecture Adrian Snodgrass, Richard Coyne, 2013-05-13

Drawing on cultural theory phenomenology and concepts from Asian art and philosophy this book reflects on the role of interpretation in the act of architectural creation bringing an intellectual and scholarly dimension to real world architectural design practice For practising architects as well as academic researchers these essays consider interpretation from three theoretical standpoints or themes play edification and otherness Focusing on these the book draws together strands of thought informed by the diverse reflections of hermeneutical scholarship the uses of digital media and studio teaching and practice Cow Up a Tree LEARN Group, 2000 Western societies are calling for speedy change in agriculture and the agrifood industries to incorporate new quality criteria into the goods they produce To promote these changes what scientists must develop are not universally implementable technical solutions but self diagnosis methods to be used by agricultural producers and their advisors They also need to evolve new procedures for research intervention in collective organisations There is a need for new individual and collective learning and organisation processes based on transdisciplinarity and co learning among researchers development professionals decision makers and farmers In this book scientists from ten industrialised countries describe and reflect on their theoretical and practical experience of the different forms of learning they experimented with Understanding Urban Ecosystems Alan R. Berkowitz, Charles H. Nilon, Karen S. Hollweg, 2006-05-29 Nowhere on Earth is the challenge for ecological understanding greater and yet more urgent than in those parts of the globe where human activity is most intense cities People need to understand how cities work as ecological systems so they can take control of the vital links between human actions and environmental quality and work for an ecologically and economically sustainable future An ecosystem approach integrates biological physical and social factors and embraces historical and geographical dimensions providing our best hope for coping with the complexity of cities This book is a first of its kind effort to bring together leaders in the biological physical and social dimensions of urban ecosystem research with leading education researchers administrators and practitioners to show how an understanding of urban ecosystems is vital for urban dwellers to grasp the fundamentals of ecological and environmental science and to understand their own environment Managing Complexity: A Systems Approach The Open University, This 20 hour free course showed how by taking a systems approach to complex situations it can become a lot easier to arrive at management decisions
