 Religious institutions shaped the ways individuals communities and societies responded to HIV and AIDS since the 1980s This book draws on research studies ranging in context from sites in sub Saharan Africa to New York City in the USA to examine the complexity of responding to the epidemic both globally and locally Religious systems of meaning practices and institutions have been central to the articulation of projects for social change and inversely sometime strongly resistant to change in diverse institutional responses to HIV and AIDS Sometimes religious movements provided powerful forces for community mobilisation in response to the social vulnerability economic exclusion and health problems associated with HIV In other contexts religious cultures have reproduced values and practices that have seriously impeded more effective approaches to mitigate the epidemic By highlighting these complex and sometimes contradictory social processes this book provides new insights about the potential for religious institutions to address the HIV epidemic more effectively More broadly it shows how research can be done on religion in the area of global public health showing how civil society organizations shape opportunities for health promotion a crucial and new area of global public health research This book was originally

Justice Not Silence Ezra Chitando, Sophia Chirongoma, 2013-09-01 The editors of this volume highlight the fact that although the Church often stands up for other public issues such as human rights democratic political rights economic justice etc sexual and gender based violence do not receive the attention they deserve There are no theological or cultural arguments that can justify such a position Sexual and gender based violence are a scourge that defies our Christian understanding of human dignity and challenges the Church in all its formations to respond Although most of the case studies are from Zimbabwe they challenge us regardless of which country we are living in or the tradition of our specific denomination In the context of Southern Africa where the HIV and AIDS burden is among the highest in the world sexual and gender based violence are a major contributor to the spread of the disease This will only change if the Church challenges this practice as part of its educational and public work in theological institutions in congregations but also in its pastoral work within families
