Environmental Pollution and Plant Responses

Shashi Bhushan Agrawal, Madhoolika Agrawal, 2023-01-30 Comprehensive and global in scope Environmental Pollution and Plant Responses provides an analysis of the research on the factors contributing to the deteriorating environmental quality and its effect on plant performance The issues include environmental pollution and global climate change response patterns of plants at different levels mechanisms of interaction tolerance strategies and future research prospects The author evaluates trends and gives management strategies for abating the problem This volume highlights the complexities of environmental problems and the affect of pollution on every level of the ecosystem Implications of air pollution for plant life Leonard H. Weinstein, Delbert C. McCune, 1970 Air Pollution Impacts on Plants in East Asia Takeshi Izuta, 2017-02-13

This is the only book to offer an up to date overview of air pollution in East Asia and the effects of air pollutants such as ozone acid deposition and aerosols on Asian crops and trees It is unique in that it discusses the fundamentals of environmental plant science and research advances in the area at the plant ecophysiology level It addresses various topics including gaseous air pollutants such as ozone soil acidification and atmospheric nitrogen deposition due to acid deposition PM2.5 and the effects of air pollutants on growth yield and physiological functions such as photosynthesis of crops and trees in East Asia It is a valuable resource for environmental scientists plant scientists government officials industrialists environmentalists undergraduate and graduate students and anyone interested in the application of the latest findings to agricultural production and protection of forest ecosystems in Asia It also provides useful information for professionals involved in research development production processing and marketing of agricultural products including those in developing countries who are interested in advanced environmental science in this field Air Pollution Effects on Crops and Forests, 1979-85 Jayne T. MacLean, 1986 Air Pollution and Forests William H. Smith, 2012-12-06 This series is dedicated to serving the growing community of scholars and practitioners concerned with the principles and applications of environmental management Each volume will be a thorough treatment of a specific topic of importance for proper management practices A fundamental objective of these books is to help the reader discern and implement human stewardship of our environment and the world's renewable resources For we must strive to understand the relationship between humankind and nature act to bring harmony to it and nurture an environment that is both stable and productive These objectives have often eluded us because the pursuit of other individual and societal goals has diverted us from a course of living in balance with the environment At times therefore the environmental manager may have to exert restrictive control which is usually best applied to humans not nature Attempts to alter or harness nature have often failed or backfired as exemplified by the results of imprudent use of herbicides fertilizers water and other agents Each book in this series will shed light on the fundamental and applied aspects of environmental management It is hoped that each will help solve a practical and serious environmental problem

World Atlas of Atmospheric Pollution Ranjeet S. Sokhi, 2011-08-01 Air pollution affects us all in a number of crucial ways causing lasting damage to our health and our environment While primary pollution can result from local activities the extent of the impact can be felt at spatial scales from the individual up to the whole planet and temporal scales from minutes to decades Consequently pollution of our atmosphere remains a critical concern warranting continued scientific investigation and the development of effective local and global solutions The World Atlas of Atmospheric Pollution clearly and engagingly summarises current understanding of the state of air pollution on city to global scales

Air Pollution and Its Complications Shani Tiwari, Pallavi Saxena, 2021-05-19 This book provides an overview of the fundamental concept of air pollution emission sources of air pollutants and their transportation First the book presents a brief background on air pollution and its emission sources then it continues with their impact on agriculture health and climate change Furthermore it covers the basic concepts of air pollution transportation of air pollutants global climate change and the use of science in air pollution policy formulation in detail It also emphasizes the effects of air pollutants in altering the onset pattern of the Indian Summer Monsoon In addition it describes the impacts of air pollution on the cryosphere and human health In this book the editors provide an interdisciplinary unique collection of new studies and findings on the groove of air pollution to improve the basic understanding of graduate students as well as researchers in the field of air pollution and its impacts on various aspects of the atmosphere and surroundings This collection covers the basic concepts of air pollution transportation of air pollutants and global climate change and the use of science in air pollution policy formulation

Plant Responses to Air Pollution Umesh Kulshrestha, Pallavi Saxena, 2016-08-02 This book focuses upon air pollution types of air pollutants and their impact on plant physiological and biochemical systems The book begins with a brief background on air pollution and continues with a discussion on different types effects and solutions to the pollution The chapters that follow explore the different effects of pollution on chloroplasts respiration biochemistry and physiology of plant cells Moreover it covers the basic concepts of atmospheric transport and transformations of pollutants and issues of global change and the use of science in air pollution policy formulation. It also emphasises about the effects of air pollutants in altering plant response to common stresses both abiotic and biotic fields by giving the focus on the physiology of plant. This book acts as a valuable tool for students in Environmental Science, Biological Science and Agriculture. It will be unique to environmental consultants, researchers and other professionals involved in air quality and plant related research. During past few decades, air pollution and poor air quality have been the issues of common concerns. Degraded air has adverse effects on various systems of plants by creating a stress which develops biochemical and physiological disorders in plants. Chronic diseases and/or lower yield have reported consequences of air pollution effects. A large number of biochemical and physiological parameters have been used to assess the impact of air pollution on plant health. Photosynthetic machinery and respiratory system are the most affected domains of plants. However, the survival of plants depends on various internal and external factors such as plant community types, air pollutants, geographical region, meteorological conditions and soil moisture etc. Plants respond to both biotic and abiotic stresses accordingly. Many tolerant plants survive easily even in higher air pollution regions. Certain plant species absorb selected gaseous air pollutants and hence plants are effective tools for air pollution remediation.

Air Quality and Ecological Impacts Allan H. Legge, 2009-04-01. Air Quality and Ecological Impacts reviews the characterization of air quality as it pertains to specific emission sources and their environmental effects. Since emissions from multiple sources impact the same location, a multidisciplinary approach is needed to relate atmospheric processes to terrestrial vegetation. As global industrial expansions continue, air quality is no longer governed by isolated point sources, e.g. a single coal-fired power plant, but by source clusters or complexes. To address these issues, atmospheric receptor models have been developed and are continually being improved. The benefits of any air quality control measures based on receptor modeling must be verified by assessing changes or bettering in environmental impacts. Until now, such an approach has not been well integrated and practiced. This book provides the needed concepts and methods in conducting the studies to establish cause and effect relationships under ambient conditions, which is valuable to policy makers both in industrialized and developing nations. Offers approaches for identifying the emissions components from specific air pollution sources. Details methods for using pollutant accumulation in plants for ecological effects assessment. Establishes cause-air quality and effect-plant responses relationships under ambient conditions. Air Pollution Abstracts, 1971

Environmental Stress: Indication, Mitigation and Eco-conservation Mohammad Yunus, Nandita Singh, L.J. de Kok, 2013-03-09. In the present scenario, stresses induced due to global environmental change have indeed become a focal point of researches and study programmes worldwide. Stress caused to plant life has an important consequence to both vegetation as such and all other global cycles which sustain this living earth. Unlike other already existing works, this volume elucidates the plant-pollutant relationship in a manner that defines not only the drastic effects of pollutants on plants but concomitantly highlights the hitherto less focused areas, namely phytointication, phytoremediation and stress-tolerant bioaesthetic development, thus concentrating more on plant than pollutant The book would help understand the magnitude of environmental stress in the coming years and may play a formative role in defining future research and policy areas along with providing impetus to development of newer eco technologies The book shall interest both students and researchers of environmental sciences ecology forestry and related disciplines as well as persons and organisations engaged in environmental management and eco conservation National Air Pollution Control Administration Publication ,196? Air Pollution; a Bibliography Sara Jeannette Davenport,G.
