Approaching the Standards, Vol 3 Willie Hill, 2001-04-30 There are two groups of standards that help form the basic repertory used in jazz improvisation The first group was created by jazz musicians directly from improvisation experimentation and the analysis of musical forms ideas and practices that were developed through study and the natural gifts of some of the greatest musicians of the twentieth century This group codified jazz into chronological styles and provides concrete examples of its styles and concepts The second group of standards is comprised of compositions written as popular songs during the first half of the twentieth century Every improviser is a composer who makes up melodies spontaneously The model choruses give examples that can be studied learned broken into independent phrases and used to create other melodies that reflect more clearly what the improviser wants to say musically

Preface Tuning, Timbre, Spectrum, Scale William A. Sethares, 2005-11-18 Tuning Timbre Spectrum Scale focuses on perceptions of consonance and dissonance and how these are dependent on timbre This also relates to musical scale certain timbres sound more consonant in some scales than others Sensory consonance and the ability to measure it have important implications for the design of audio devices and for musical theory and analysis Applications include methods of adapting sounds for arbitrary scales ways to specify scales for nonharmonic sounds and techniques of sound manipulation based on maximizing or minimizing consonance Special consideration is given here to a new method of adaptive tuning that can automatically adjust the tuning of a piece based its timbral character so as to minimize dissonance Audio examples illustrating the ideas presented are provided for free on the Springer Extras website <http://extras.springer.com> This unique analysis of sound and scale will be of interest to physicists and engineers working in acoustics as well as to musicians and psychologists
